INSULL ARRESTED IN GREECE

Today

14 Billions a Year.
Broker and Land Crab.
Earth's Biggest Bridge.
Killing As a Pleasure.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 10.

IT WAS said before 1929, "Prosperity is our natural condition." Unless taxes are reduced depression will be our natural, permanent condition, and what B. C. Forbes, authority on finance, tells proves it.

In Cosmopolitan Magazine for November he shows that the whole world does not own enough gold to pay America's tax bill for one year. Taxes collected in 1932, in the United States will amount to FOURTEEN THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS. Mr. Forbes says:

"If every dollar of gold in the United States were tendered in payment of taxes the bill would not be one-third settled. If all the paper currency in circulation throughout the country were added to all the gold we would still owe the tax collectors as much more again—and more.

"If all the gold mines in the world shipped every ounce of their production it would take thirty-four years to meet America's tax charges for twelve months.

"If five-dollar gold pieces were piled on one another it would take a stack eleven thousand times the height of the highest building in the world (the Empire State) to equal the 1932 tax bill."

No country enduring such taxation by federal, state, city and township government can hope to regain prosperity.

He came here to live and two days ago his lawyer told him that mortgage holders would take away his house, there was no way of preventing it. Then he sent a bullet into his brain.

To every man's endurance there is a limit.

THE WORLD feels sorry for a man turned into the street from his own house, and if we could appreciate the sorrows of our humbler brothers in the animal kingdom, we should feel very sorry for the poor land crabs, so numerous here that they are appearing even on suburban streets, rambling among the automobiles, sometimes almost as big as cocoanuts.

Unfit to eat, they dig big holes that might undermine trees and even buildings. Gas, from automobile exhaust pipes, is run into the holes, and the unhappy crab comes out, holding one huge claw in front of his eyes, as a human being might do leaving a house on fire, then dies.

Perhaps the Angel Gabriel writes down the details of that event just as he does the death details of the man whose house was taken from him. The land crabs owned all of Florida, 1,000 years ago.

FROM THIS depression will come many things much needed, and, in the long run, more important than the depression. Our government, in its process of "shoveling out millions," finances many useful enterprises. It will buy $62,000,000 of California bonds, to help finance a bridge from San Francisco to Oakland, which will be the biggest bridge in the world.

Six thousand men will be employed directly on the bridge, six thousand more indirectly in industries supplying materials and equipment. The total cost will be $70,000,000.

Long after this depression is forgotten that bridge will be serving people from all over the United States and paying its way.

FOUR GENTLEMEN of the west, bored by life's dullness, bought two lions from a bankrupt circus, planning to turn them loose in a big, heavily timbered tract of land, there to enjoy the pleasure of hunting and killing them.

Citizens of that region object, saying the lions might escape and live to kill on their own account.

The Miami Herald calls this "mighty Nimrod" expedition "asinine." You would have a poor opinion of four lions if they caught two men and turned them loose to hunt and kill them, especially if the lions didn't intend to eat the men.

And the four men have all the advantages. They can climb trees, lions can't. And in addition they can kill a lion at two hundred or more yards. The lion must bite or scratch.

BAD AS it is, the brutality of men in dealing with animals is mild compared with man's brutality toward his own kind when he has power over him.

A miserable youth, Arthur Maillefert, of New Jersey, convicted of robbery, was, or pretended to be, too weak to do heavy work on the roads, and had the misfortune to incur the dislike of the guards.

It is testified that "trusties" among the convicts, currying favor with the guards, "framed" the miserable young man. He was stripped naked, put into a heavy barrel, and compelled to walk around in it half a day in the rain. He escaped, was recaptured, and put in a "sweat box," less than three feet square, with a chain around his neck. There he strangled to death.

The state of Florida can be depended on to see that justice is done in this horrible case, although it cannot adopt the suggestion of the Miami Herald

CRIMINALITY DENIED BY UTILITIES KING

Ex-Chicago Financier Held by Police In Athens

By CHRISTOPHER PROTOPAPPAS
International News Service.

ATHENS, Oct. 10.—Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate, was arrested in his hotel here today.

He was taken into custody by the Athens chief of police, who entered his apartment in the Hotel Bretagne and placed him under arrest.

The action of the authorities came as a distinct surprise, since officials previously had declared police had received no instructions in regard to the ex-multimillionaire.

The arrest was made at exactly 1:30 p. m., after which the former utilities "king," wanted by Chicago authorities to answer charges of larceny and embezzlement, accompanied the chief of police from the hotel.

LIGHTNING EVENTS

This development climaxed a series of mysterious and lightning events, which began last Wednesday with the disappearance of Insull from the Hotel Lincoln in Paris.

The arrest of Insull was made at the request of the United States Legation here. It was understood authorities took the step as a detention measure to prevent Insull from leaving the country while authorities were investigating his case.

In an exclusive interview with International News Service, Insull, one-time monarch of the $2,000,000,000 utilities kingdom, defended himself against the indictments returned in Chicago charging him with larceny and embezzlement with the assertion:

"I am innocent of wrongdoing. I have lost everything I have ever owned."

The interview took place in the headquarters of the Athens police.

ABANDONS SECRECY

Suddenly abandoning his air of secrecy, Insull unbent and told his story in the dingy police station. He described for the first time his dramatic flight from Paris a few hours after the indictment was returned and insisted he had not yet received any formal notification that he is the subject of criminal prosecution. Insull said:

"Of all the companies controlled by me, only the Middle West Utilities Company, the Insull Utilities Investments and Corporation Securities of Chicago went into bankruptcy.

"The liabilities were about $250,000,000, while their actual

Threat of Vengeance Mailed Defendants From Pittsburgh

International News Service.

COURTROOM, JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 10.—Threats of vengenace on the two "sweatbox" murder trial defendants and their counsel for the "unmerciful lynching" of Arthur Maillefert, young New Jersey convict, were renewed in two letters received today by Fuller Warren, defense attorney.

Similar threats have been made in numerous other letters received since the trial opened, Warren said. One letter, postmarked Pittsburgh, Pa., and unsigned, read:

"Warning! Lay off the Higginbotham-Courson case; otherwise this will be your last case. We know your record. You got one good beating from us."

JURY SEES DEATH BOX

Examination by the jury of the "sweatbox" in which "Jersey" died of strangulation, was ordered today by Judge George Couper Gibbs.

The jury was taken to the Sunbeam chain gang road camp, a few miles from here, during the noon recess.

Judge Gibbs ordered the jury to the camp after W. H. Gasque, county detective, testified that changes had been made in the measurements, and the position of the punishment chamber moved.

GUARD COURT IN FEAR OF RED RIOT

Mother Mooney at Door as Scottsboro Case Is Heard

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Preparing for a possible Communist demonstration in the Scottsboro cases, which may be reached today in the Supreme Court for oral argument, capitol officials today ordered the plaza in front of the capitol cleared of automobiles and an extra police guard provided to maintain order.

The cases involve a plea of seven Negroes, convicted of attacking two white girls near Scottsboro, Ala., for the court to set aside their death sentences.

Included in the crowd at the courtroom today was Mary Mooney, mother of the California labor leader now serving a life term in San Quentin prison in connection with a bomb explosion. She said:

"I am interested in seeing that other mothers' sons get justice. I know what injustice means to them."

Nixon Ends Musicians' Dispute

The possibility of the Nixon Theater closing for the remainder of the season faded today when the musicians and the theater management agreed on new terms.

Harry Brown, manager of the theater, announced that the disagreement was ended, that today the musicians had returned to work under a new contract.

This new contract, Brown says, calls for a minimum of 10 musicians in the pit, the same number as previously.

M. E. Johnston, president of the Pittsburgh Musical Society, announced the musicians had been guaranteed 20 weeks' work, five less than last season. A slight reduction of salaries for the musicians at dramatic shows was made.

U. S. Victory Closes 'Oil Scandal' Cases

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(INS.)—The Supreme Court today closed the famous "oil scandal" cases by declining to review a decision of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals cancelling three leases of the Pan-American Petroleum Company on rich portions of the Elk Hills (Cal.) naval oil reserve.

The order, in effect, gives back to the government 660 acres of land worth several millions of dollars, together with an accounting for oils already taken. The leases were made by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B Fall to Doheny interests.

Supreme Court Acts In Diversion Case

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(INS.)—The Supreme Court today issued an order requiring the State of Illinois and Sanitary District of Chicago to show cause by November 7 why they are not complying with the court's decree in the Great Lakes diversion case.

The action was taken on a motion filed by the states of Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota. The matter also was set for oral argument on November 14.

TWO HOMES SHAKEN BY BLAST

Flaming Fuse Near Slug-Filled Pipe as Man Sees Peril

A plot to bomb the home of Lewis Tomasic, 49, of 35 Patterson street, Wilkins Township, was partially frustrated early today when Tomasic found a shrapnel bomb and tossed it out of the window through which it had been thrown.

As the bomb struck the porch in front of the house, it exploded, hurling hundreds of slugs through the walls of his own home and that of Nick Prelosky across the street, where a number of the slugs missed by inches Prelosky, his wife and five small children.

RACKETEERS BLAMED

Police attributed the bombing to rum racketeers against whom Tomasic was said to be due to appear as a witness tomorrow in Criminal Court. Tomasic denied this and said he was unable to explain the attack.

However, county detectives said Tomasic was well known for the aid he has given Constable Herman Funk, whose home in Braddock Township was bombed two months ago. The sleuths, who interpreted today's bombing as reprisal by racketeers, said Tomasic had been a frequent witness for Funk.

Describing the bombing, Tomasic said:

"I was sleeping on the second floor of my home when I was awakened by falling glass. When I reached the kitchen I saw smoke coming from the dining room. I walked across the floor to turn on the light, tramping over the broken glass

LONDON, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Winston Churchill, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, today left the hospital where he was under treatment for paratyphoid.

EUROPE WORSE OFF, REED SAYS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Senator Reed, just returned from abroad, said at the White House today he had reported to President Hoover upon his conferences with European leaders concerning the Manchurian situation and upon European economic conditions, which he described as "growing considerably worse" in many countries.

The Pennsylvania Senator said they also had discussed the disarmament situation, about which, he said, he was "not very optimistic of substantial results in the near future."

To newspapermen, Reed denied published reports concerning his conferences with Prime Minister MacDonald, Sir John Simon, British Foreign Minister, and Premier Herriot, of France, saying that "the subject of international debts

STEEL BACKLOG RISES AGAIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(INS.)—Unfilled orders of the U. S. Steel Corporation in September scored the second consecutive increase, rising 15,495 tons to 1,985,090 tons, the corporation announced today.

This followed a gain of 3,293 tons in August, the month marking the first reversal in 17 months.

The gain was less than Wall street had anticipated, the financial community having estimated an increase of approximately 50,000 tons. The rise in orders last month was accompanied by an improvement in the industry's production schedules.

Wall street's disappointment was reflected in selling of U. S. Steel common, which, after rising nearly 2 points by noon, lost all of its gain.

Operations of the steel industry are currently around 19 per cent of capacity, compared with a summer low of around 12 per cent.

Zybszko, Wrestler, Faces Balm Suit

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Stanislaus Zybszko, three times wrestling champion of the world, is named in a $100,000 breach of promise action filed in Supreme Court.

Miss Gladys Buszek, music teacher, of Winnipeg, Canada, said she spent the better part of three years preparing a trosseau only to learn the matman was already married. Zybszko made a general denial.

PRESIDENTIAL POLL

ARMY OFFICER DIVORCED HERE

A romance that began in a Panama cabaret between a United States Army officer and an attractive entertainer, ended today when Maj. Pedro A. Hernandez, formerly in charge of the Army recruiting station here, was granted a divorce from Rachael Hernandez on the ground of cruelty.

In granting the decree, Judge Marshall said:

"It scarcely needs the citation of authority to demonstrate that a husband's condition is rendered intolerable and his life burdensome by a wife who makes physical assaults on him, destroys his clothes, threatens to poison or shoot him and herself, drinks to excess, villifies him and his people, and incessantly carps at him over a love affair which she is unable to prove, and which, so far as the testimony shows, existed only in her imagination."

Maj. Hernandez, son of Jose C. Hernandez, former chief justice of the Porto Rican Supreme Court, flew here from Washington, last January, to testify. Mrs. Hernandez, then residing in the Lebanon Hall Apartments, Mt. Lebanon, opposed the divorce.

MRS. DREW SITS ON DEATH JURY

Mrs. Mary Snyder Drew, wife of Justice James B. Drew of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, was selected to serve on a murder jury today and tonight she must remain locked up in the jurors' quarters. Mrs. Drew served last week on a number of minor cases which permitted her to go home each evening.

This morning, however, she was selected as juror No. 12 in the trial of Clinton Harter, 28, Negro of Boston. He is charged with the death of Alfred Hertzhog, 29, Negro, also of Boston. Harter is accused of hurling a lamp at Hertzhog, igniting his clothing and causing burns which proved fatal.

Hearst Poll Moderate As to Roosevelt Lead

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(Universal.)—The nation-wide postcard presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States is conservative. The tremendous sweep of the country by Gov Roosevelt that the poll has indicated from the outset of the tabulation of returns the middle of August, has not exaggerated the Roosevelt strength.

The Digest in its current issue, dated October 8, prints figures for 20 states. These show 404,992 ballots for Gov. Roosevelt and 325,845 for President Hoover. The 730,837 ballots reduced to a percentage basis divide 55 per cent for Roosevelt and 45 per cent for Hoover.

Rescuer Dares Fumes In Well, Saves Dog

Braving the peril of black damp, M. J. Teater, Humane Society agent, was lowered to the bottom of a 44-foot abandoned well in Homestead today to rescue a German police dog, nearing death from effects of the gas.

The dog, "Buddy," had fallen through old boards covering the well, in the yard of its owner, Paul Miskago, 354 East Fifth avenue. The latter had been unaware of the existence of the well, which is 3½ feet in diameter.

Borough firemen and police lowered an extension ladder into the empty pit, but it was 20 feet short. With a safety belt around his waist Teater was lowered by a rope to the ladder and made his way to the dog.

After tying a rope around the dog, Teater, slightly affected by the gas, clambered up the ladder and was pulled up the rest of the way by his fellow-rescuers. They then hoisted the 65-pound dog to the surface. The animal had apparently suffered no injury from his drop and three-hour imprisonment except gassing.

'Kingfish' Huey Long Tells Governor It's 'In the Bag'

By RAYMOND I. BORST
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will wind up his campaign for the Presidency with a "courtesy" trip into Dixie, a whirlwind drive through some of the border states and the Middle West, a couple of speeches in New England and the final "smash" in Tammany's stronghold in New York City.

Final plans for the trips will be mapped tonight by the Governor at a conference with James A. Farley, national chairman.

Under tentative plans the Democratic nominee will leave New York a week from tomorrow, stopping that night in Baltimore for possibly one of the major speeches in the border states. On Tuesday, October 18, he will stop at Raleigh, N. C., and then continue on to Atlanta.

If the tentative itinerary is carried out Roosevelt will be in St. Louis on October 22. On Monday, October 24, he plans to speak in Wheeling, W. Va., and possibly in Pittsburgh.

From Pittsburgh he will head back for Albany, with brief stops in Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse.

Unless there is a last minute switch in the tentative plans, the Governor will deliver a major speech in Boston on Monday night, October 31. He may speak the following night in Providence, R. I., but intends to leave Connecticut to former Gov. Alfred E. Smith. The "happy warrior" is expected to make his first stump speech for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket in the Nutmeg State.

At his Hyde Park home, Roosevelt was told by Senator Huey P. Long, Louisiana "Kingfish," that the South is "in the bag," and that there is no "necessity" for him to campaign in Dixie.

Smith Asked to Join Roosevelt on Tour

By LOUIS SIEBOLD
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Gov. Roosevelt's advisers are planning to have the Democratic presidential nominee and Alfred E. Smith appear together in at least three rallies to be staged in the New England states.

The reconciliation of the two outstanding figures in the Democratic party has paved the way for the realization of this ambitious program.

The plan to have the Governor and his original political sponsor appear together has been submitted to Smith. It was said that while he had not definitely agreed to come along he has displayed a more amenable attitude to the suggestion than was expected.

POLL PROMISES WET CONGRESS

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(INS.)—A large wet majority in the next Congress was predicted today by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, national chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

She based her prophesy on returns to a questionnaire sent to 417 candidates for Congress. Of those replying, 347 were for outright repeal, 42 were vague, and only 28 were against repeal.

The canvass covered 23 states. Mrs. Sabin said wets among Democratic candidates outnumber those among Republicans, 2 to 1.

Hoover Schedules Talk Saturday in Cleveland

President Likely To Extend Trip in Middlewest

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(INS.)—President Hoover will deliver his second major address of the campaign in the auditorium at Cleveland, O., next Saturday night, October 15, the White House announced today.

The hour of the speech and other details have not been definitely decided.

While plans are still somewhat uncertain, it is the present intention for the President perhaps to push on for speeches in Indiana, Illinois and possibly Minnesota.

Mr. Hoover still is loath to abandon his original plan of making but "two or three" speeches during the entire campaign. But the vigor of the Democratic campaign, Gov. Roosevelt's picturesque invasion of the whole West, and the increasing evidences of a Democratic trend in the Middle West and beyond the Mississippi River, have rather knocked that plan awry.

Republican leaders in most of the states that lie between the Alleghenies and the Rockies are sending frantic appeals to the White House for "more Des Moines speeches." The burden of their song is that Republican chances look bad, but that if the President will come out with "some more fighting speeches" the scales may be turned before four weeks from tomorrow.

On Wednesday, President Hoover will have an opportunity to make another major speech—to the American Bar Association here.

Thus far in the campaign, Mr. Hoover has made no mention of prohibition, other than to say in his speech of acceptance nearly two months ago that he stood by the Republican platform.

The American Bar Association last year went on record in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Republican leaders, particularly in the wet states of the Atlantic seaboard, have been urging the President to say something on this issue. He will have an excellent opportunity Wednesday night before a friendly audience.

Mr. McErlane originated that modern invention, "the one way ride," on which you go out in the automobile, but do not come back. Somebody finds your body beside the road. Police say McErlane "grinned as he killed." He did not believe that any enemy could get the better of him.

The "one way ride" inventor has learned that small enemies are more dangerous than big.

He fought hard for his life at the end, but lost. The enemies attacking him were pneumonia germs, too small to be shot.

2 WOMEN, 3 MEN HELD IN RAIDS

Two women and three men, arrested by county detectives who raided three alleged speakeasies Sunday, were held for court today by Alderman Thomas Geary. All posted $1,000 bond on charges of violating the Snyder act.

The women said they were Anna Dusic and Helen Grayson. They were arrested with Wade Stottlemeyer at 6324 Station street. In a second raid at 5138 Penn avenue, Joseph Catello was arrested.

At 2518 Fifth avenue, detectives arrested Robert Gardner as alleged proprietor. According to County Detective Frank Ritz, liquor was found in each place. The raid on Gardner's store was declared to be the second in five hours. Late Saturday prohibition agents visited the establishment, confiscated moonshine and arrested Gardner, it was said at prohibition headquarters.

Urges Greece Form Coalition Cabinet

ATHENS, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—President Zaimis of Greece addressed a letter to the leaders of the political parties today appealing to their patriotism to form a coalition cabinet, made up from all parties except the Communists.

Such action, he said, was the only means of solving the financial crisis of the country and inspiring confidence abroad.

SENATOR WALSH SPEAKS HERE TOMORROW

County-Wide Drive For Votes Set By Democrats

Opening their county-wide drive for votes through the exhortations of national figures, the Allegheny County Democratic Committee has scheduled Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, for a speech tomorrow night in North Side Carnegie Hall. Speaking with Walsh will be Lawrence H. Rupp, Democratic candidate for the Senate from Pennsylvania.

Noon meetings started today at Democratic headquarters, Fourth avenue, with Attorney B. B. McGinnis as the chief speaker. In the plan of Democratic strategy McGinnis is carrying the attack against Senator James J. Davis, seeking re-election on the Republican ticket.

DISTRICT MEETINGS

Neighborhood meetings have been scheduled for every night this week. The Democrats are making a particularly energetic drive in Wilkinsburg and other sections outside of Pittsburgh.

Republicans of the county also are giving their campaign some impetus, the long-delayed opening of headquarters finally being definitely scheduled for this week. County Chairman William H. Coleman is holding nightly meetings in a downtown hotel with representatives of legislative districts in the county.

Coleman has appointed a service men's committee consisting of Charles Lane, Jr., Dr. Herbert Dewar, Churchill Mehard, George E. Grimm and W. B. McFall, Jr.

Mrs. Ann Felix, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Thirty-second District, has opened headquarters at 3610 Fifth avenue. On Friday night John Henry will speak in her behalf at a meeting in Schenley High School.

HUMES STATEMENT

In a statement today Attorney E. Lowrey Humes, U. S. District Attorney in the Wilson administration, attributed the political plight of Pennsylvania to the breakdown of the two-party system of government, and pleaded for its revival through the election of Roosevelt. He said:

"Roosevelt's conception of the necessity of virile political parties honestly and courageously led, as evidenced by his contest in New York against Tammany and bi-partisan control, is an assurance to the people of Pennsylvania that as the national leader an opportunity will be afforded to restore the two-party system of government in this state.

"The election of Lawrence H. Rupp to the United States Senate will obsolutely guarantee the restoration of the two-party system of government because it will provide a definite, able state leadership. Through the election of Roosevelt and Rupp the people of Pennsylvania can bring about the restoration of responsible party government."

INSULL SEIZED BY POLICE IN ATHENS

Ex-Financier Denies Wrongdoing in Companies' Crash losses were in the neighborhood of $100,000,000.

"I attribute these bankruptcies to the general world crisis.

"I, my wife and son have lost all our property. We have nothing left but my pension of $18,000 a year."

Throughout the interview, Insull betrayed a nervousness that he tried in vain to hide. The diminutive, white-haired capitalist bit his fingernails and folded and unfolded a copy of an American language Paris newspaper which told of his flight from Paris.

TRAVELED BY PLANE

In the recital of his futile dash across Europe, Insull revealed for the first time that it had taken him as far afield as Tirana, Albania. Airplanes as well as trains were used in his apparent attempt to defeat extradition proceedings launched by the American authorities after his indictment. Insull said:

"I bade farewell to my son and left Milan, Italy, on October 6 for Rome by air.

"The next day I changed my route and flew to Tirana. I was there only a short while and obtained airplane transportation to Salonica.

"The last part of the journey to Athens was made by train. I immediately booked a room at the Grande Bretagne Hotel, where I remained until the police chief called this afternoon and took me into custody."

It was with a plaintive note that Insull denied knowing officially that extradition proceedings had been launched to get him back to the United States. He said:

"Newspapermen told me I was being criminally prosecuted, but I have not yet received my summons."

Insull broke down his barrier of silence after an intensive campaign by this correspondent which began when International News Service first located him in his hotel, thus ending a search carried on through seven nations over a period of nearly a week.

INSULL POLITE

Insull had received this correspondent at his hotel. He was polite and amiable, but firmly determined not to give any interviews.

At police headquarters, he at first maintained this attitude. He insisted:

"I have nothing to say to newspapermen."

Persistent efforts of this correspondent to obtain an interview attracted the attention of the chief of police, who has carried out Insull's arrest in person. The chief of police asked:

"Why are you pressing this man?"

Before I had a chance to reply, Insull waved his hand and said:

"It's nothing. We are just having an amusing discussion."

A faint smile lit up his tired features as he reconsidered the subject he had termed "amusing." Then he suddenly turned and said:

"I will talk to you."

The interview afforded an insight into the personality and character of the man who was transformed almost over night from a multi-millionaire captain of industry to the object of criminal search.

When he talked about the bankruptcies and liabilities which resulted in his indictment, he was cool, calculating and meticulous in his presentation of figures.

POLICE COURTEOUS

When he discussed himself and his family and their sudden descent from countless millions to $18,000 a year, he was humble, self-effacing—almost an object of pity.

Accompanied by a plainclothes policeman and the brother of the local manager of the American Express Company, he was permitted to leave the headquarters for luncheon.

DESCRIBES TORTURE HOSE

An 18-inch length of railroad coupling hose was used to flog Maillefert, in punishment that preceded his strangulation, a "trusty" prisoner testified.

The charge was made in the testimony of Bob Blake, convict, who took the stand for the state.

Blake, describing other punishment methods meted out to young Maillefert, including his confinement in a 50-pound oak molasses barrel, his escape and death in the "sweatbox," charged in direct testimony that Courson had enlisted his aid in "framing" an untrue version of Maillefert's death.

The two defendants claim the convict committed suicide to avoid serving a nine-year sentence for robbery.

Charges that Courson attempted to bribe other convicts with promises of pardons if they would testify in support of the suicide story were made by other convict witnesses from the stand last week.

Blake followed Buddy Pickett, another convict, to the stand. Pickett charged both defendants with having a part in adjusting the seven-foot trace chain about Maillefert's neck.

In brief cross examination by Defense Attorney C. A. Avriett, today, Pickett, answering a question as to the elapsed time between Maillefert's confinement in the "sweatbox," and his death, said:

"It was about 25 minutes."

Durrance, in quizzing Blake, instructed him to tell the jury what he knew of Maillefert's death.

He was called by Courson on Thursday, Blake said, quoting Courson:

"Stick around, Bob, I'll need you.

"He drove off and came back with a barrel. He had a gunny sack padding put inside, got Maillefert out of the box (sweatbox") and put the barrel on him.

PLEADING IGNORED

"All day Thursday Jersey (Maillefert walked around in the rain. That night he was put in the box, still in the barrel. . . . .

"Courson then had Shaw, a trusty, get some thin pine boards and Capt. Courson fitted them while shaw nailed. . . . .

Caopai said I don't give a damn if it so. . . . . .

CONVICTS HUNTED

Meanwhile, bloodhounds prowled the purlieus of Duvial County, armed officers at their heels, as a man hunt proceeded for the two long-term convicts, state witnesses at the trial, who early yesterday sawed their way to freedom from the county jail.

Clad in chaingang stripes, Cleo Drew and James Wofford fled from the jail some time before dawn Sunday, after pulling out a plumbing fixture in their cell and crawling through the hole to a window, where they sawed bars and slipped to the ground on rope improvised from bedclothing.

EUROPE WORSE OFF, REED SAYS

never was mentioned or hinted by any of the men I saw or by myself."

FAITH IN PAYMENTS

He asserted reports to the contrary were "100 per cent wrong," adding:

"I remain convinced that most of the countries which owe us money are better able to pay than we to cancel. I have faith in their promises and confidence in their ability to pay."

In his talk on the Manchurian situation and the Lytton report with the President, Reed said he reported he had had "a very frank discussion" with European leaders on the situation surrounding Manchukuo. He said:

"I wanted to find out what European leaders thought about the Manchurian situation, what they think ought to be done, and what the League of Nations should do.

"I did find out, but I am not free to talk about it now. I can say that there was no bargain sought or made by the United States on the Manchurian question."

Reed said he was "distressed to find that business conditions in most of the countries" he visited were going down grade.

BRITISH IMPROVEMENT

In Great Britain, he said, he found economic conditions slightly improved, but unemployment conditions bad. He said France apparently was "going through the some stage now that we went through some months ago."

Reed, who with Ambassador Edge, from Paris, and Ambassador Sackett, from Berlin, will take part in the campaign for Mr. Hoover's re-election, said he had offered his services to the President today and was ready "to go where I am wanted and do what I can do." He said:

"I told the President that I probably would do more speaking outside of Pennsylvania than in. Pennsylvania will go for Mr. Hoover by a generous majority. I haven't any doubt of it. The outcome in Pennsylvania is sure."

Vexed, Coolidge Holds G.O.P. Chances Good

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Former President Calvin Coolidge thinks Republican chances of victory in November "are good," he said upon his arrival in New York today.

He will be the principal speaker at a Republican rally tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden. His talk will be broadcast.

But today Coolidge did not want to talk politics at all. When he stepped off his train he was surrounded by a dozen newspapermen and asked if he would answer some questions. He gave a one-word answer.

"What do you think of the Republican chances?"

Coolidge frowned. After a moment of silence, he said:

"Didn't you hear me say I would not answer any questions? Of course, I think they are good. But that does not excuse you from asking me."

The former President, surrounded by secret service men, strode away. This afternoon he attended the funeral of Darwin P. Kingsley, chairman of the board of the New York Life Insurance Company.

Grid Stars 'Hit Line' To Re-Elect Hoover

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—President Hoover today thanked a quartet of football stars for their offer to help him in the campaign, saying he felt "the future of the country is in the hands of its young people, and, I believe, in the Republican party."

The President said:

"I do hope that you hit the line hard."

The Chief Executive's words were spoken on the south lawn of the executive mansion as he stood with the quartet, composed of "Albie" Booth, captain and quarterback of Yale last year; "Shipwreck Kelly, former halfback of the University of Kentucky; "Eddie" Mays, onetime halfback of Harvard, and "Red" Cagle, former captain and fullback of the Army.

They were presented by John Jay Hopkins, special assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury who dubbed them the "flying backfield," since they had flown to the capital from New York today in a plane known as the Forward Pass.

Hopkins said the four men under the leadership of Pat Orvis, chairman of the college division for the eastern campaign have "undertaken the task of urging 4,500,000 young 'first voters' to help repeat the Republican victory of 1896, the issues of which he compared to the present campaign.

Booth, as spokesman for the group, said:

"The young people of the country are all behind you, Mr. President. We are hitting the line hard and on November 8 we will bring back the winning score."

CRACKSMEN AGAIN BLAST SAFES IN DOWNTOWN OFFICE

GAS ATTENDANT BADLY BEATEN BY THUGS

Gaylord Home Robbed; 5 Gunmen Hold Up Drug Store

Robbers and thieves put in a busy week-end, police revealed today, with the looting of three safes in one office downtown, the ransacking of an East End residence, the holdup of a Turtle Creek drug store and a Lincoln district gas station.

Two safes in the office of the W. F. Frederick Piano Company, 913 Liberty avenue, were blasted open while the doors of a third were twisted off with bars. Less than $200 was taken.

The robbery was discovered yesterday by John Gilbert, music teacher, who has a studio on the third floor of the building. About a year ago safes in the place were looted in a similar manner.

ROB GAYLORD HOME

Thieves entered the home of Truman P. Gaylord, former vice president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, 6311 Jackson street, early yesterday by breaking a panel of the kitchen door, and ransacked the second floor. Mrs. Gaylord, returning today from her summer vacation, said a hasty checkup disclosed nothing of value taken.

Five armed men held up the Weiss Drug Store, Maple avenue and Locust street, Turtle Creek, shortly before midnight, held two clerks, George Norris, 17, and George Cholcoote, 16, at bay, and robbed the cash register of $20. They also stole cigarets and tobacco. They escaped in an automobile, police were informed.

George Williams, 23, of 7018 Chaucer street, was beaten unconscious by bandits who lay in wait in the boiler room, in holding up the gasoline station of the Vacuum Oil Company at Lincoln avenue and Deary street. He is in the Pittsburgh Hospital in a serious condition.

The thugs fled with the day's receipts.

OVERLOOK MONEY SACK

Mary Gazdik, 20, of 5710 Elgin street, reported that she was robbed of her purse, containing a small sum, while she and a girl friend were walking in Highland avenue.

Robber Frightens Woman, Escapes

Police radio cars of two stations dashed to 2228 Humber way early today on receiving a report of a robbery. Arriving there they found the robber gone, but a badly frightened Negro woman standing on the sidewalk. She gave a description of the intruder and asked for a police escort into her home.

DEAD GUNMAN'S BODY GUARDED

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—(Universal.)—Because he is hated even after his death, the body of Frank McErlane, torture gangster, was under police protection today so that the few left to care might decently bury it.

Police declared that enemies of McErlane hated him so bitterly that, foiled of the satisfaction of killing him by his death from pneumonia in Beardstown, Ill., Saturday, they seek to inflict marks of that hatred, by torch or knife, on the body. Detective Chief Shoemaker said:

"It sounds fantastic, but it's true. McErlane lived a life of terror in his last few years. In moments of delirium he even feared his dead enemies."

Which explains why the body was guarded by armed men all the way from Beardstown to Chicago, and why funeral arrangements were kept secret by relatives, friends and authorities.

3 POLICEMEN FACE CHARGES

Police Chief Willis Harker and Patrolmen William J. Glenn and Peter McDonough, of North Braddock, today were charged with interfering with an officer and releasing a prisoner. They will be heard tomorrow before Justice of the Peace H. C. Kiefer in Pitcairn.

Prosecuting them is Constable George W. Arendas, of North Braddock, himself accused of extortion by John Orris, a North Braddock shopkeeper. After Arendas had been held for court Saturday on a charge of extortion, he filed charges against Harker and the two patrolmen. He said that when he arrested Orris they interfered and released the prisoner. Orris has accused Arendas, Justice of the Peace Harry Biggs and W. H. Murray, of North Braddock, of conspiring to prosecute him without basis on a liquor charge.

ULSTER DIVIDED ON WALES BID

LONDONDERRY, Ireland, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Determination among Ulster nationalists to boycott a visit by the Prince of Wales for opening of the Northern Parliament was voiced today.

A proposal to invite the Prince was bitterly opposed at a meeting here, but adopted by a strictly party vote. A spokesman said:

"We are asked to show affection for a Prince who represents the king of another country.

"We would be poltroons if we did. We take this opportunity of renewing our entire condemnation of partition of our country to which the British royal house has been a party."

GRONAU, 3 AIDES SAVED AT SEA

MANILA, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and three companions abandoned efforts to repair the disabled engine of their globe girdling airplane, forced down on rough seas of the Indian Ocean, when the British steamship Karagola turned to their assistance today.

"Steamship Karagola comes our rescue. Thanks your help. Sorry could not finish our program."

The plane had been forced down earlier in the day 200 miles south of Rangoon by a broken water pump.

Besides Capt. von Gronau the plane carried Gert von Roth, second pilot; Fritz Albrecht, radio operator, and Frank Hack, mechanic.

Their flight started from Isle of Sylt, Germany, July 22. They were to complete the world circuit in Berlin the latter part of this month.

Divorces Cheaper, But 'Sales' Decrease

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Divorces are cheaper in Chicago, but the number of persons desiring them is falling off, clerks of the Circuit and Superior Courts reported.

Despite a 50 per cent decrease in the costs of legal separations they reported that divorces were 13 per cent less for the first nine months of this year as compared with the same period a year ago.

AILEEN RIGGIN SECRETLY WED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Aileen Riggin, former women's Olympic diving champion, and Guy Young, New York business man, have been married since early this year, the swimmer's family, here on a vacation trip, said today.

The announcement of the marriage was made following the departure of the couple on a motor trip to the north. They arrived here last week for a visit, driving from North Carolina, where Miss Riggin has been appearing in exhibitions, spending two days in Los Angeles. After a trip through the Northwest, they will return to Young's home.

The swimmer's mother explained the marriage had not been announced previously because of professional reasons.

Michael Goes Home For King's Birthday

PARIS, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Young Prince Michael, of Rumania, left Paris yesterday for Bucharest to be on hand for the birthday of his father, King Carol, October 16.

The lad was suddenly recalled to Rumania from London, where he had been visiting his mother, the former Queen Helen, for two weeks. Princess Helen charged the recall was "an act of persecution" on the part of King Carol.

CORONER SCANS HAWN DEATH

Coroner W. J. McGregor and his chief deputy, John S. Aldisert, this afternoon were to visit the scene of the fatal injury suffered by the Rev. Isaiah Hawn, 77, retired minister of the Reformed Church, in an effort to decide whether he was attacked or fell, suffering a fractured skull, on the steps of the Friendship Public School early last Tuesday.

Deputy Coroner John Artz reported his investigation inclined him to the theory held by the homicide squad that the aged minister had fallen while taking a short cut to his home in South Negley avenue. Mr. Hawn had $4 when found. He died in West Penn Hospital.

His relatives blamed his death on gang vengeance following his testimony against suspects after he had been robbed of $53 a month ago.

'NUDISM' FAD OF FRANKLIN

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Benjamin Franklin was a pioneer exponent of indoor nudism, an old letter discloses. It says:

"I have found it aggreeable to my constitution to bathe in cold air. I rise early almost every morning and sit in my chamber, without any clothes whatever, half an hour, according to the season, either reading or writing.

"I find no ill consequences whatever resulting from it and I shall call it for the future bracing or tonic bath."

The letter, written in 1768, was found among ancestral papers by J. Ogden Cuthbert, of Cynwyd.

Weather Conditions

The western low pressure advanced eastward very slowly since Saturday, while the eastern high remained nearly stationary over the Atlantic coast states. This morning the high is centered off the Atlantic coast, the low is centered over Michigan, in the form of a long trough separating the eastern and the western highs. The high that was centered over Northern Alberta on Saturday morning moved down over the Northwestern United States. It is centered over South Dakota and Nebraska this morning and covers most of the country west of the Mississippi. Five to six inches of snowfall was reported yesterday morning over South Dakota and westward over Montana, with remarkably cold weather. This morning the freezing temperatures extend as far south as Kansas and Colorado and eastward to the Mississippi, and at Rapid City, S. D., a temperature of 14 degrees occurred. It is the lowest temperature on record for that section for the season. In the Mississippi Valley it is raining in the south and snowing over the north.

in my bare feet. I saw a sputterling flame."

The flame was a lighted fuse attached to a triangular piece of pipe, weighing approximately six pounds, according to Tomasic. He added:

"I picked it up, ran to the window, and tossed it out. As it landed on the porch, it exploded with a terrific noise, and spattered my home with slugs."

CHILDREN PERILED

Others peppered the walls of a house across the street, occupied jointly by Andrew Simek and Nick Prelosky, his wife and five children. A number of the slugs passed over the bed in which Prelosky and his wife slept, and missed by inches, a bed occupied by Gloria, 6; Ronald, 4; Daniel, 7; Richard, 2. Geraldine, aged 10 months, slept in a crib at the foot of the children's bed. Police said they found a number of slugs in the walls over the children's bed, while others evidently had passed from a front window in the Prelosky home and out through another in the rear of the room.

Miss Anna Simek, 20, a daughter of Andrew Simek, narrowly escaped injury when a slug passed over her bed.

Police are searching for two men who were seen by Barbara, 24, and Mary Tomasic, 18, earlier in the evening acting suspiciously in front of their home. They passed back and forth several times, the girls said, and disappeared when they were joined by a third man. The two girls slept in a bedroom directly over the room into which the bomb had been tossed. Other occupants of the Tomasic home were Mrs. Mary Tomasic, another daughter, Katie, 18, and two roomers.

The explosion was heard over a radius of several miles.

TEXAS GUINAN TO MARRY; HE'S 'WONDERFUL'

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—They are going to be playing "Here Comes the Bride" for Texas Guinan.

The heroine of New York's night clubs is going to be married right after Christmas to—would you ever have guessed it?—"the most wonderful man in the world!" She was asked:

"How do you spell it?"

"You don't. I won't tell his name yet. But you can say it's true I've got it bad. I'm in love for the first time in my life."

TEXAS' HARD HIT

Then over the telephone from Rochester, where Miss Guinan is playing in vaudeville this week, came a squeal—a regular, soprano, schoolgirl squeal. Even in a telephone interview it became apparent she was hard hit. She said:

"I've just got a telegram from him. Would you like to hear it."

She read it, ecstasy in every syllable. But she stopped just short of the signature. No, she won't tell who he is. She gave a few hints, however.

He is an important man, well known all over the country, and connected with the show business.

He is 38, a Canadian, has been married before, but for a long time, according to his fiancee, "he hasn't been working at it."

Wealthy, too. Oh, yes, no doubt about it. He does not want her to work when they are married, but she is going to work anyhow. She said, breezily:

"Would go mad if I didn't. I know I've been married before."

"How many times have you been married?"

WED THREE TIMES

"This will be my fourth. I was married twice in America and once on the level. My last divorce was five years ago. I believe in love and I believe in marriage, although I think marriage is carrying love too far."

The night club queen, known for her wisecracks, was in rare good form. She was sitting up in bed, she said, it being her regular rising hour, noon. Her voice was gay, exultant. She added, referring to her troupe:

"And, oh yes, don't forget to say I won't give up my girls. I love those kids of mine. I always say I'd rather have those 12 kids than $1,000,000, because when you have the money you want more, but when you have 12 kids you know you have enough!

"What's that? A private wedwedding? My dear, did you ever hear of me doing anything private? I should say not! It'll be a real celebration. You just wait and see."

Then the plaintive note in her throaty voice:

YOUTH ADMITS SLAYING GIRL

FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 10.—(INS.)—Police today obtained a confession from Arthur Metcalfe, 19, Laporte (Ind.) hitch hiker, that he attacked Mildred Scheidler, 20, struck her on the head with a club and threw her body into a clump of bushes near Needles, Cal.

Metcalfe was arrested at the home of the girl's mother, Mrs. Wanda Scheidler. According to officers, Metcalfe posed as Mrs. Scheidler's lost son.

When Mrs. Scheidler discovered some of her daughter's clothing in Metcalfe's suitcase, she became suspicious and told officers. Her suspicions were further aroused when she noticed that Metcalfe's eyes were blue while her son Orville's eyes were brown.

Metcalfe was hitch hiking from Laporte with the girl.

Plane Wreckage Not The American Nurse

GENOA, Italy, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Commander Cassanello, of the Port of Genoa, said that an airplane wing, found 200 miles off the coast by the English steamer Jumma, apparently came from a French plane lost recently during maneuvers. There had been some speculation that the wing was part of the lost trans-Atlantic airplane American Nurse.

KIDNAPERS GET TERHUNE DOG

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 10—(AP.)—Wolf III, a famous collie from the Albert Payson Terhune kennels, was missing today and Maj. C. Roy Dickinson, publisher, reiterated a belief that the dog, valued at $2,000, had been "kidnaped."

After a futile day of search and visits to five dog pounds, Maj. Dickinson said:

"I imagine there is a racket in dogs working around here. During the past four or five days several people in this neighborhood have had their dogs stolen, and all of them were valuable animals."

No trace of Wolf III has been found, the Major said, since he was last seen shortly before noon Saturday. Police joined the dog's owner today in search for the missing animal.

Maj. Dickinson said he expected to receive a demand for ransom for the return of his dog. Thus far, however, he explained, he has had no message from the "kidnapers."

Wolf III has a black coat, with tan and white markings. His legs are tan and paws and breast white.

Circus Fat Woman Dies, Trouper to End

A trouper to the last, Alpine wisecracked her way through Saturday night's performance and then went to bed. Early in the morning she was found dead in her quarters on the Virginia State Fair Grounds.

The 732-pound showwoman, who was past 40 years of age, contracted chills during exhibition in Bloomsburg, Pa., two weeks ago, and rains and chilly weather here last week aggravated her condition.

Her body will be sent to Morristown, Fla., where she was said to have relatives.

Aimee Quits Hospital To Observe Birthday

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—A blood infection and carbuncles that last week sent Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton to a hospital was not enough to keep the evangelist in bed yesterday on her 42nd birthday anniversary.

Although physicians told her they hoped she would remain in bed another week, Mrs. McPherson-Hutton insisted on going to Angelus Temple.

She preached a sermon, personally acknowledged the congratulations of her flock and attended a birthday dinner at her parsonage with members of her family.

She looked pale and weak as she appeared in the pulpit but waved vigorously as her congregation applauded and showered her with flowers. She remained to listen to a group of children sing all of the hymns she has composed.

She said she would return to the hospital today or tomorrow.

Percentage Standing of Candidates

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Division of the 403,928 postcard ballots thus far recorded in the nationwide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States, shows Gov. Scattered gains and losses made no difference in the lineup of the country as a whole.

The following table shows the percentage division by states today, as compared with a week ago, together with the gains and losses in the states where there were changes:

19 MINERS DIE IN CAGE FALL

LEIGH, LANCASHIRE, England, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Nineteen mine workers were drowned at the Plank Colliery, near here, today when an elevator cage carrying a number of workers fell to the bottom of the mine shaft. A sump at the bottom was full of water.

The crash occurred as the early morning shift was about to relieve the night workers. The elevator had just started down the shaft when something went wrong with the machinery and the cage dropped.

A rescue crew, accompanied by physicians, went down through another shaft and extricated the bodies.

FIGHT TO SAVE 2 HURT IN CHASE

CLEVELAND, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Physicians at Charity Hospital battled today for the lives of two persons, one a 14-year-old girl, who were made victims of a spectacular attempt by two desperadoes to hold up a downtown jewelry house Saturday.

Four other persons were shot or slugged before an automobile commandeered by one of the two robbers crashed into a stone wall at the end of a wild three-mile chase through traffic and the bandit-driver, Norman Townsend, 34, was shot to death by officers. Townsend's accomplice, Francis Bush, 32, also of Detroit, was captured when he fractured an ankle in flight from the store.

Herbert Quinlan, son of Edmund S. Quinlan, 65, whose jewelry store was the scene of the attempted robbery, and who was shot in the abdomen when his aged father tried to battle the robbers, underwent a second blood transfusion, with little hope held for his recovery.

GIRL TEACHER RETURNS HOME

STREATOR, Ill., Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Colette Haley, rural school teacher, missing since September 6, was back home today with a story Sheriff E. J. Welter said accused a Catholic priest, long a friend of the family, of kidnaping her.

Welter said Miss Haley told him the priest, the Rev. William Courtney, 42, of Alexis, Ill., invaded her township school September 6, pointed a revolver and forced her to accompany him.

Courtney, she said, and four of his friends kept her prisoner at Chicago, Grand Rapids, Mich., and St. Louis until last Wednesday,

Roosevelt Faces Great Test in Poll Balloting

Must Fight to Hold Margins Gained In 3 Months

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The presidential campaign, with four weeks to go, has now settled down to where Gov. Roosevelt must fight to hold the advantage gained in the preceding three months since the nominating conventions.

The Democratic candidate apparently reached the peak of his strength in September. October is his crucial month.

This trend is indicated by a study of returns in the nation-wide postcard poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

The past week saw evidences of the trend when Illinois, North Dakota and Oregon, which a week previous had accorded the Governor 60 per cent of the poll ballots, slipped back to 59.

He also suffered percentage losses in Arizona, California, Indiana, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Washington and Wisconsin, besides in some of the definitely safe Democratic states of the South.

This, however, may be regarded as merely the inevitable shaking down process that marks the final weeks of every campaign. The same reaction was observed in lesser degree on the other side. Percentage losses were suffered by President Hoover in Colorado, Delaware, Idaho, Michigan and Rhode Island.

The result of the week's adjustments was to leave Roosevelt with 240 potentially safe electoral votes in states where he is drawing 60 per cent or better of the poll ballots, 67 reasonably safe in states where his percentage is 55 or better, but not up to 60, and small majorities in a group of definitely doubtful states with 79 electoral votes.

Hoover still holds on to the five states with 37 electoral votes that all along have appeared definitely safe for him with 60 per cent or better of the poll ballots. Two others, New Jersey and Rhode Island, with 20 votes, appear reasonably safe with percentages between 55 and 60. Then there are 88 votes in definitely doubtful states where he is slightly ahead.

Bogus Note Passers Sentenced to 'Pen'

Pleading guilty in Federal Court to passing counterfeit $10 notes, three Hill district Negroes were sent to Atlanta Penitentiary by Judge R. M. Gibson. They are William McKinley, alias William Saunders, 41; William Ferguson, 33, and Robert Hairston, 32. Ferguson and Hairston were sentenced a year and a day and Saunders 18 months.

3 IN FAR WEST DOUBTFUL

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Colorado, Wyoming and Montana are the doubtful states of the Far West. This is according to returns to date in the nationwide post card presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

Arizona, California, Nevada, Utah and Washington appear definitely certain to cast their electoral votes for Gov. Roosevelt. Idaho, New Mexico and Oregon look reasonably safe for him.

Colorado is the only state in this far western area where President Hoover is showing a lead in the poll ballots. His margin there is only 80 votes, with 4,552 tabulated. Last week, however, Colorado gave Roosevelt a 103 majority of the 791 new ballots received. Another week like that and he will be ahead in the state.

Next to Colorado the closest far western state is Wyoming, where Roosevelt has a majority of 52 out of 902 ballots. This state continues to run at that relatively close ratio, the 153 new ballots of the past week having given Roosevelt a margin of only 7.

Montana presents very much the same picture as Wyoming, except that Roosevelt attained a somewhat better lead in the early balloting. As the state now stands he has a majority of 224 out of 3,026 ballots. Last week, however, he got only 13 majority with 345 new votes recorded.

HEARST POLL SHOWN TO BE CONSERVATIVE

per cent for Roosevelt and 46 for Hoover.

The 20 states include four from the solidly Democratic cotton belt of the South, where there is no question of their going for Roosevelt by sweeping majorities. Eliminating these four states, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina, the Digest poll shows a total of 708,826 Hoover-Roosevelt ballots from the remaining 16. These divide 385,949 for Roosevelt and 322,876 for Hoover, a percentage division of 54 for Roosevelt and 46 for Hoover.

PERCENTAGES DIFFER

The same 16 states in the Hearst poll have returned 232,587 ballots, Roosevelt drawing 120,504 and Hoover 112,083. This is a percentage division of 52 for Roosevelt and 48 for Hoover.

The 16 states are California, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Montana, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

In every instance, the poll replies in the Digest tabulation from these 16 accord Roosevelt a higher percentage of the ballots than he receives in the returns of the Hearst newspapers poll. The Digest goes even further by giving Roosevelt the lead in three states where the Hearst newspapers poll shows Hoover ahead. These are New York, Ohio and Colorado.

VARY ON OHIO

The Hearst poll gives Colorado to Hoover by 52 per cent. The Digest figures give it to Roosevelt by 56. The Hearst poll gives New York to Hoover by 52 per cent. The Digest ballots place it to Roosevelt's favor by 52. The Hearst poll shows Ohio a 50-50 break, the slight fraction of 1 per cent difference leaning to Hoover. The Digest votes accord Roosevelt a 60 per cent mark in Ohio.

The same relative conservatism of the Hearst poll prevails in the comparison of the two sets of poll ballots for the remaining 13 states, although both polls place the same candidate in the lead in each instance.

The Hearst newspaper poll is not merely of 48 states, but of more than 3,000 individual counties, each county being sent a quota of ballot cards based on one-tenth of the actual voting strength of that county, as recorded in the 1928 presidential election.

This controlled and restricted distribution of ballot cards to conform to the actual voting strength of a particular community has its effect in giving an equality of representation in the poll replies to every section.

VOTING FAVORS ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(Universal.)—The summarized weekly tabulation of straw poll ballots taken by 58 periodicals throughout the country show that Gov. Roosevelt is more than 25 per cent ahead of President Hoover in the totals, according to the figures compiled by the national Democratic headquarters.

The figures are: Roosevelt, 878,005; Hoover, 626,999; Thomas, 63,137 and scattering, 16,372.

Of the local straw votes taken by individual newspapers some interesting disclosures on the trend of the election are indicated. For instance in Illinois where 12 local newspapers are conducting polls in their own communities, but two give Hoover the advantage, the other 10 being strongly Roosevelt.

At Brownsville, Pa., a poll gives Hoover 78, and Roosevelt 303. The Times at Erie gives Hoover 334 and Roosevelt 693.

A paper at Huntington, W. Va., gives Hoover an advantage of four votes in its poll, the totals being Hoover 138 and Roosevelt 134. In the West and Northwest in states like Kansas, Oregon, Wisconsin, Utah, the straw ballot votes show the same Roosevelt trend.

Polls in Dayton, Cincinnati, Columbus and Youngstown, O., give Roosevelt more than 2 to 1.

SOCIETY FLIER, ASTOR KIN, HURT

HICKSVILLE, N. Y., Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Reginald Langhorn Brooks, 30-year-old stunt flier, nephew of Lady Astor and son of the former Phyliss Langhorne, hit a telegraph pole while flying upside down at the Aviation Country Club yesterday and was critically injured. The accident occurred as Brooks was attempting to perform his "upside down landing," in which he comes in head downward until the last minute when he flips over to land. A crowd of society persons saw the crash.

Brooks, whose name is in the New York social register, has been interested in aviation for many years. He completed an 11,000-mile air tour of the United States and Mexico in 1930 and helped prepare the Columbia for its flight to Germany in 1927.

OVATION HAILS RETURN OF WALKER

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Former Mayor James J. Walker, trying to be "just a private citizen for awhile," and "still in politics just as much as I ever was," rested at his home here today after the tumultuous reception accorded him upon return yesterday from a month's stay in Italy.

The demonstration for the former Mayor began as the liner Europa crept slowly up the bay to its berth in Brooklyn. Tammany turned out en masse.

Walker said he was enjoying the first real rest he had had in years, but he had found it difficult to relax completely.

Asked whether he might be a candidate for office, he replied:

"That's not for me to say. Conventions determine such matters."

PRAISES O'BRIEN

After declaring he was not out of politics, Walker added:

"You know, I've never asked for an office in the 23 years of my public life. Are only office-holders presumed to have any interest in politics? I still have as much interest in the affairs of my city as I ever had. I'm still a regular organization man, and I'll do anything I'm asked to do."

He termed the nomination of Surrogate John P. O'Brien for the office he himself so recently adorned as "perfect," and added:

"I couldn't say anything too good about Surrogate O'Brien. I know him as a man devoted to the interests of the city."

He declined to discuss Mayor McKee's activities, explaining:

"I don't know anything about what he's been doing."

As to his future plans, Walker said:

"I have had several good offers for my services, but I haven't considered them at length yet. I can't till I begin to feel better. I'm trying—with no little difficulty—to be just a private citizen for awhile."

HAILED AS 'MR. MAYOR'

Walker is still "Mr. Mayor" to his Tammany friends. That was the way he was greeted by Tammany Boss John F. Curry and Brooklyn Leader John J. McCooey. When the trio met at the pier they went into a huddle for five minutes. Curry seemed to be explaining something to Walker, with McCooey nodding approval.

When the Europa dropped anchor at Quarantine, Walker was greeted by two large tugboats laden with Tammany officials, bands playing and pennants flying.

As the ship proceeded up the bay, the Sabbath quiet was shattered by the salutes from whistles of small and large craft.

At the pier a crowd estimated at 10,000 awaited Walker and lined the streets a block distant from the waterfront as he drove home with his wife, who had greeted him as he stepped from the gangplank.

JAP TERRORIST HELD IN HAWAII

HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 10.—(Universal.) — Invoking the law passed by Congress shortly after the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby, authorities today have arrested Matsutaro Tanaka, 21-year-old Japanese high school pupil, who is charged with threatening to blow up the homes of three American business men here if they did not give him money.

A prison sentence of 21 years and a fine of $5,000 is provided in the new law, which covers the sending of threatening letters through the mail.

Police arrested Tanaka when he tried to gain possession of a package of bills used as a decoy.

The threatening letters were written to Guy Davenport, manager of Moana Hotel; J. A. Radway, vice president of the Bank of Hawaii, and Robert M. Morton, manager of the American Can Company in Honolulu, according to police.

Jobless Men Fight Over Gift, 1 Slain

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Charitable friends gave a sum of money to Peter Polniscek, 63, and Blazej Dziacko, 58, both unemployed. A quarrel arose between them over division of the donation, and today Polniscek was dead, victim of razor cuts on his arm. Police arrested Dziacko whom, they said, confessed the slaying.

3,000 PICKETS ROUTED

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Oct. 10—(INS.)—Front yards of homes near Peabody Mine No. 58 looked like wartime prison camps here this morning when National Guardsmen herded nearly 3,000 coal mine pickets into the fenced enclosures.

The pickets attempted to prevent the reopening of No. 58 under the provisions of the $5 wage scale as signed by the United Mine Workers of America, and were routed by state troopers, who hurled tear gas into their midst.

The guardsmen then proceeded to clear the streets and forced the protesting men into the available yards, most of which belong to the miners.

The pickets arrived about midnight. They came from a dozen or more mining centers in this section.

About 200 men went to work.

Extra Job 'Plum' Pays Him $9.25, Says Ferris

Lieut. Frank Ferris, head of the city's homicide squad, who has been criticized for holding a city detective's job and a constableship in the North Side, besides being a boxing judge, has no kick to make. But—

When it was mentioned the constableship was a 'rich plum." Lieut. Ferris had his own opinion, which is something like this:

"Rich plum. Well, I got $9.25 out of it so far, and I've been a constable for months."

ASKS U. S. LAW BAN MARCHES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—(AP.)—The capital's police superintendent, Pelham D. Glassford, wants Congress to give him power to prevent any further marches on Washington by organized groups.

He has made a request to District of Columbia commissioners for specific legislation, molding the experience with the Bonus Expeditionary Force shows it to be necessary.

The police now are operating under an emergency order, issued after the July bonus riots, and held by some to be illegal, which would forbid entry into the District of Columbia by all but those who have "a lawful purpose."

BIRTH CONTROL CALLED PAGAN

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Delivering the sermon at a solemn pontifical mass which opened the annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women here yesterday, Archbishop John T. McNicholas, of Cincinnati, said birth control is "a pagan practice of the modern world."

He urged women of the council "to stand as a body against this evil" and stand apart from "all others who do not condemn this subversive doctrine."

The mass was celebrated by the Most Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, apostolic delegate to the United States. Approximately 500 women from throughout the country are attending the conference, which will extend through Wednesday.

Killed Under Train As Life Grip Fails

CORRY, Pa., Oct. 10.—Jolted from the rods of a passenger train after a seven-mile battle to escape death, according to railroad men, Hugh Baker, 50, died today. He was found yesterday on the Erie Railroad tracks seven miles from here.

Railroad men say they believe Baker, fireman at the Jamestown Manufacturing Corporation here, was crawling under a passenger train at the local station, and when the train started he pulled himself up on the rods and held on until jolted off.

VICEROY READY TO FREE GANDHI

SIMLA, India, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Lord Willingdon, the viceroy, has received numerous telegrams requesting the release of Mahatma Gandhi, and is understood to have agreed to the Nationalist leader's freedom, but on the condition that his civil disobedience campaign be called off.

As Gandhi has, according to reports, told several close friends that civil disobedience is "a part of his religion," the prospect of his release seems remote.

He is confined to Yeroda Jail in Poona on a charge involving civil disobedience.

THE SUN-TELEGRAPH

POWER CHIEF FOR PUBLICITY ON UTILITIES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Full publicity concerning the affairs of public utility companies to bring about more effective regulation was advocated today by George Otis Smith, chairman of the Power Commission.

He addressed the public utility law section of the American Bar Association. It was one of the many groups meeting today and tomorrow preliminary to the association's fifty-fifth annual meeting in general session Wednesday, which President Hoover will address.

CORPORATE EVILS

Dr. Smith said in his discussion of public utilities that "the working principle of administrative control of such corporate evils as the whole country has suffered from in these later years should, I believe, be full publicity of the corporation's daily life." He added:

"The business of a public utility needs to be done in the open, even to the extent of requiring approval in advance by some public authority for many of the plans now disclosed only years afterward."

CITES DISCLOSURES

Dr. Smith said "recent history furnishes the urge for action" regarding holding companies, and continued:

"Almost daily there are astounding disclosures of high-handed conduct by chief executives of top companies that has played havoc with what the humble and trusting owners regard as their securities.

"The existing system is itself supplying the strongest arguments for a new deal."

Beside President Hoover, who is on the program of the Bar Association for an address Wednesday night, other prominent speakers include Chief Justice Hughes, Paul Reynaud, French statesman, and the Marquis of Reading, former British ambassador to the United States.

Thursday, the convention's members will attend the dedication of the Supreme Court's new $10,000,000 building, for which Chief Justice Hughes will lay the cornerstone.

PEANUT FARM PLANNED HERE

The local peanut vendors will not have to send to the Sunny South for their product next year. They can grow peanuts right in their own back yard in Pittsburgh.

As an experiment Sidney Thomas, a Negro who raised peanuts in Virginia, planted several goobers in his back yard at 36 South Thirtieth street last May. He was rewarded on digging them up yesterday by finding that all the plants had thrived.

Next year Thomas is planning to go into the peanut raising business. He said:

"I have a plot about 50 by 50 feet and will plant it all with peanuts next year. Down in Virginia that would give me about three bushels."

Wills $500 Fund for 'High Price' Theory

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Oct. 10.—(AP.)—There's $500 waiting for the person who can put up the best argument to support the theory that increased price levels following the World War reduced "millions of worthy, industrious people" to penury. The fund was created by the will of J. F. Woolsey, retired hotel operator, who died September 12, 1931. A restriction is that the applicant must be one of the penurious "millions."

Spain to Give Test To New 'Fish Lung'

MADRID, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—A Spanish laborer, Adrian Alvarez Ruiz, announced today the marine ministry had agreed to an official test of his invention consisting of a submarine cylinder equipped with the equivalent of "fish lungs."

LACK OF GRAFT DOOMS GANGS, SAYS HOAN

Take graft out of city government and the gangsters will go out with it, according to Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, of Milwaukee, who addressed three meetings in the Pittsburgh district yesterday in behalf of the national Socialist ticket.

Declaring that Samuel Insull has done 100 times more harm than Al Capone, Hoan argued for public ownership of utilities before an audience of 1,500 persons at the Fulton Theater. Later he spoke before the League for Social Justice in the downtown Y. W. C. A. and at a mass meeting in Natrona.

'NO GRAFT—NO GANGS'

Describing the government in Milwaukee, a city with the reputation of being virtually free of gangsters, Hoan said:

"I take no credit to myself. It is the system of government. If I tried to clean up a city like Chicago, I'd be in the canal in a week."

Asked how it was that Milwaukee had been able to escape gang warfare, Hoan said:

"Gang warfare cannot exist without graft. We did away with that. And our police department is based on an honest merit system. Every policeman in Milwaukee knows that if he does what is right, he'll get a promotion."

The common people do not want graft, Hoan declared. He placed the responsibility for graft on the wealthy classes, declaring that the money came out of the common man's pocket.

Hoan praised the reforms in government which have taken place in Cincinnati. Although they do not call it Socialism they have done a splendid job, he declared.

BETTER GOVERNMENT

Better governments are possible in all cities if the people will organize, Hoan said. No city could tell a worse story than Milwaukee before 1910, he stated.

Hoan described the services which the city of Milwaukee is performing at low cost. He told how the city operates its own stone quarry, cutting the price of street material.

The police and firemen's pension fund in Milwaukee has a surplus of $4,000,000, Hoan declared. He spoke strongly against reductions in payrolls.

Asked if he was troubled in Milwaukee with citizens who asked officials one day for more public improvements and the next day for lower taxes, Mayor Hoan said:

"Yes. But the only thing to do is lay out a definite program, and when you come to the end of that, stop. Stick as close to a pay-as-you-go basis as possible. Milwaukee is doing that."

REDS DEDICATE LARGEST PLANT

DNIEPROSTROY, U. S. S. R., Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Soviet Russia celebrated today a major achievement of the five-year plan with the official opening of its gigantic hydro-electric plant here, designed as the largest in the world.

Headed by representatives of the government and Communist party leaders, thousands of persons crowded the site of the new power development to hear officials of the commissariat of heavy industry announce the beginning of operations of the country's most ambitious industrial project as current was turned on from the powerful generators.

Designed and constructed by American engineers and equipped with American machinery, the opening of the great electric station two months ahead of schedule marked a personal triumph for Col. Hugh L. Cooper, of New York, whose firm had the contract for the project and who personally supervised it from the beginning.

MOROS BATTLE TROOPS, KILL 21

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 10.—(INS.)—A Sulu Island clash between Philippine police and Moro outlaws cost the lives of 21 constabularymen, Col. Clarence Bowers, chief of the constabulary, announced today. Two officers were critically wounded.

An unknown number of outlaws was reported dead.

After a conference with Gov. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, Teopisto Guingona, director of non-Christian tribes, will leave for the Sulu Island tonight.

5 STATES GET SNOWFALL

Associated Press.

Montana and Wyoming stockmen and farmers today looked out on fields of white—a life blood snowstorm for field and farm in the two states which had experienced a 30-day drought.

Snow fell again in Colorado. Wisconsin and Minnesota had their first snow this autumn, accompanied by near-freezing temperatures. Lincoln, Neb., had its first snow of the season, a light one that melted as fast as it fell.

Transportation and communication facilities generally were undamaged in the snow area, but a spot of bad flying weather between Cheyenne and Laramie in Wyoming caused air officials to take passengers by bus between the two points.

ARM FOR PEACE, SAYS JOHNSON

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Adequate armament of the United States on the grounds that "preparedness is the greatest preventative to war," was urged here yesterday at a meeting of officers of the American Legion by National Commander Louis Johnson, of Clarksburg, W. Va.

He outlined the legion program and referred to the national convention in Portland, Ore. He said:

"The American Legion passed some resolutions at Portland that do not please everybody. There are those who resigned from an 'honorary status' in the legion after these resolutions had been adopted—and 'honorary status' which you know and I know never existed.

"You red-blooded men who fought the country's battles in the World War, and who now, constituting the greatest peace time army, are fighting them now, did not quit the legion. To you and to me the American Legion is a sacred thing."

He wants his cigarettes mild and that's why he picks Chesterfields.

Mildness doesn't mean a smoke that's weak or flat or insipid or anything like that. In fact it's just the reverse. Two-fisted fellows as well as anyone else—men and women—want a cigarette that's mild . . . one that satisfies—and that's Chesterfield.

We believe that every smoker is looking for a cigarette without any "bite" or bitterness, and a cigarette that has a pleasing taste—and that's Chesterfield.

WRIGLEY USERS THRILLED WITH NEW DOLLARS

Wrigley Flavor Distinctive in Gum.

By Miss Mint

Saturday was a bit chilly, but my welcome from those who received Wrigley dollars, was warm and cheering. Why shouldn't I be welcomed with a loud hurrah—the bearer of dollar bills for Wrigley users?

Mr. DAVID E. JONES, of the Pennsylvania Lubricating Company, 34th St., was "plenty surprised" and thrilled when I approached him in his office. "I think Wrigley's in the new cellophane wrapped package is another indication of Wrigley's progressiveness—leading its field with this new modern method of preserving that marvelous Wrigley flavor," was Mr. Jones' opinion of Wrigley's as a whole. We make our bow, gladly, to you, Mr. Jones.

JOHN GREENE was rushing up the street. He was trying to keep an appointment with a friend. I checked his speed, and after he received his dollar, he was 'most too excited to write. "Wrigley's is delicious," he informed me pantingly, due to his hurried climb up the hill, "it makes my mouth cool, and when my mouth is cool, I'm cool all over." Not bad, Johnnie, always keep cool—with Wrigley's.

There were so many others who received Wrigley dollars:

DOLORES EGGER, 230 45th St.; MRS. MARIE McCLOSKEY, 4417 Butler St.; H. A. RHODES, 205 South Millvale Ave.; MAE FINCKE, 209 Third Street, Aspinwall; JOHN W. FINK, 3431 Butler St., PATRICK O'CONNOR, 222 Third St., Braddock; HELEN SMOREY, 50 Hickory St., Etna; EDWARD WATERS, 189 46th St.; "Don't give up the ship, if I haven't stopped you, I can't miss you every time. While there's Wrigley's in your pocket, there should be hope in your heart."

Children Should Be Taught Gratitude by Parents

Mother sacrificed everything for the youngsters. Why don't they appreciate it?

Is it because they're just naturally ungrateful brutes?

Louisa is beginning to think it is.

"I've always tried to give my two girls everything to make them happy while they could enjoy it," she wails. "I've sacrificed my own comfort to see that they had what the other youngsters had. I've worked for them and watched over them, and now that they're big enough to help me, they won't even wash a dish!"

Is there something unnatural about that?

Or is it the logical result of Mamma being a doormat?

"Dear Miss Martin:

"Why are children so ungrateful? I can't understand mine at all, and I am wondering if all youngsters are like them. It makes me very unhappy. I just don't know what to think.

"I didn't have a very happy or easy childhood myself, and when I married and my two girls came along I was anxious for them to have the things I had missed.

"My husband had a pretty good job, which he enjoyed and worked diligently at, and in which he has now risen to an executive position. So you see we have always been reasonably well off. Still, there were many times that I had to go without things that would have made me very happy, in order to give the little girls things they needed—things the other youngsters they knew had. I went without them cheerfully, even happily, for I loved my girls, and what made them happy made me happy.

"I worked and sewed and watched over them, and often neglected myself for their sakes. I never made them work, because I felt that work could come soon enough for them, and I wanted them to be happy and carefree as long as they could be.

CHILDREN UNGRATEFUL

"Well, wouldn't you think they'd appreciate all that, and realize what I had given up for them? They don't. Now they're big enough to help me. One has just graduated from High. She's 17. The other, two years younger, is in her junior year.

"But do they thank me for the things I've done for them; or even wash a dish, or sweep a floor? No. Not they.

"Naturally, our income is smaller now than it was, but they demand more and more, and get sarcastic if they don't get it. And instead of helping me, they take it for granted that I'm going to slave to make dresses we can't afford to buy now—and pick them up off the floor where they throw them after they are made!

"Are all children just ungrateful brutes? Don't they ever appreciate it when you wear yourself out to do for them? I'm beginning to believe they are, and don't. "LOUISA M."

CAN LEARN GRATITUDE

Are all kids ungrateful brutes?

They are if you train 'em that way, sister. That's what you've spent your life doing to yours, and by doing so you've done them, as well as yourself, a terrible injustice.

However, it's never too late to learn, and gratitude can be learned, like everything else. But you can't teach it to your girls by tantrums or storms of self-pity. Shame them, instead. Make them see that they're harming themselves and will be cordially despised for their boorishness. Make them feel that gratitude is part of that good grooming on which they pride themselves.

Make a program which will force gratitude upon them. Compel them to be courteous, whether they like it or not. Stop being the doormat. Stop doing their chores. Make each one responsible for her own room and her own clothes.

And if they don't take care of their clothes, don't you do it. Make them take the consequences. Let them find out by personal experience, not talk, just what you have had to do.

Get yourself some new dresses and a new haircut, too, and be a Real Mother, not just an Easy Mark.

Fay King Advises Young Girls to Avoid Older Men

By FAY KING

Of course, no girl, young and pretty, with the best years of life before her would "fall in love" with a much older man, if she dreamed it would end in tragedy.

Her self-interest, which makes her prefer an old man of position and means, to a young man with only prospects, would alone prevent this.

For if she does not wish to endure the economies and disappointments of a youthful struggle toward success, how much less does she wish to endure the scandal and notoriety which attend murder or suicide.

How much trouble and tragedy could have been averted in this world, if young and pretty girls, and middle-aged settled men, had remained true to their proper places in life and avoided each other.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Time vs. the Ace

There is a popular belief in Bridge circles that there is no hurry about cashing Aces at notrump because "they are always good." However, this popular belief is subject always to one amendment. Time can, with its inexorable workings, frequently either shut out an Ace or convert it into a liability, as in the hand below, where it dragged its owner into a hopeless end-play.

In playing defensively against an adverse declaration, not only the ability to take tricks but the timing of the trick-taking is an important factor, and one which no player who hopes to be successful can overlook.

The manner in which Mr. Charles H. Goren, of Philadelphia, obtained the maximum result on a hand through failure of an opponent to appreciate the relation between time and his trick-taking is aptly illustrated in the hand below:

North—Dealer.

North-South vulnerable.

	♠ J 8 5 4 ♡ A Q ◇ K J 9 8 5 4 ♣ A
♠ 7 6 ♡ 8 5 4 ◇ 6 3 2 ♣ 9 7 6 5 2	North West East South	♠ A Q 9 2 ♡ K J 9 6 ◇ 7 ♣ Q 10 4 3
	♠ K 10 3 ♡ 10 7 3 2 ◇ A Q 10 ♣ K J 8

Mr. Goren

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ◇	Double	Redouble	2 ♣
2 ◇	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding requires no particular comment, as the natural contract on the hand is reached, even though a possible Slam in diamonds can be made if North should be fortunate enough to make every guess with meticulous accuracy.

Against the contract of three no trump, West made the short-suit Opening of the spade 7, no doubt his best Opening, in view of East's Double, which indicated an ability to play the hand at a major suit. East, with prospects of 3 tricks in spades if his partner's hand was better than a Yarborough, passed the Opening lead, which South won with the Ten. Mr. Goren then led a small club from his hand, winning with the Ace in Dummy. A low spade was led from Dummy, which East also elected to pass, and South won this trick with the King. Time was now running against the player of the East hand and he could win but one trick. Mr. Goren then cashed the King of clubs, discarding a spade from Dummy. The Declarer now proceeded to run 6 diamond tricks, and upon the last two diamonds East was compelled to throw first the club Queen and then the spade Queen. When the diamonds were run, East was thrown in with the Ace of spades and compelled to lead up to Dummy's tenace in hearts, permitting South to make 3 overtricks.

East's position, after the opening lead, was an unfortunate one, but in view of the bidding and the vulnerability of North and South, he had nothing to gain by refusing to cash the Ace. As a matter of fact, had he done so, the course of the play might have varied materially.

The moral of this story is that while an Ace can almost always be cashed at a notrump declaration, it is wise for the holder to take into consideration the factor of time.

Today's Question:

What is the proper bid on the following hand, partner having bid one spade, Third Hand, and opponent having overcalled with two clubs:

♠ J 7 6 ♡ K Q 9 7 ◇ A 6 4 ♣ K 1 2

Answer: Two notrump. If partner bids three spades, a raise to four spades is now indicated.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Secret Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been married two months, and although my family and a few close friends know of it, it has never been announced. I would like to know just how to do this.

1—Are formal announcements in order, or should I just write notes to our friends? If so, how should they be worded?

2—I would also like to know just how my name should be written—Mrs. Jane Smith Jones, Mrs. Jane Ellen Jones, or Mrs. John Jones? W.

1—You may, if you wish, send formal announcements of your marriage, but this, of course, will emphasize the unconventionality of the wedding.

In my opinion, it would be far better just to tell those relatives and friends who do not yet know the news and who live near enough for you to go to see and tell them, and then to write notes to those who live too far away for a visit-to-tell-the-news.

How you word these informal notes, depends on the degree of relationship or friendship that you have with each one to whom you are writing. Just a friendly little note, telling the news, when the marriage took place, and, if you wish, where.

2—Your formal name . . . that is, your name, for instance, on your visiting card . . . will be Mrs. John Henry Jones. Always avoid the use of the first name with the title of Mrs.

Your signature to business letters, or to letters to those who must be informed of your formal name will be like this:

Yours very truly,
ALICIA SMITH JONES.
(MRS. JOHN JONES).

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Report Proves Measles Is Serious and Often Fatal

Now comes the uncomfortable statement from the Department of Health of New York City that measles in infancy continues to be a serious and fatal disease.

Dr. Copeland

Contrary to common belief, measles is a serious ailment. It is particularly dangerous when it affects children under 2 years of age.

The medical profession has long recognized the danger of measles in young persons. If mothers would come to look upon measles as a serious disease and not as a normal occurrence of childhood, there would be fewer fatalities. Every precaution should be taken to guard infants and young children from this infection.

Children should never be deliberately exposed to measles. When the disease is prevalent in your neighborhood, take all the steps possible to prevent its spread. Bear in mind that measles is a real menace, that it is particularly dangerous when it afflicts those who have physical defects or are undernourished.

There is a great deal of confusion concerning measles. In its early stages it is easily mistaken for a simple cold, yet when neglected and allowed to run its course without the proper care, dangerous complications, such as bronchial pneumonia, may take place.

Measles is easily recognized at about the fifth day, for at this stage the characteristic rash appears. It comes out behind the ears and about the neck, rapidly spreading over the face and body. It is much better if the disease is recognized before this stage. Early knowledge will prevent exposure and the danger of spreading the infection.

Always suspect measles when a child with signs of a simple cold complains of pain in the eyes. If the eyes are red and the child has a fever and is restless, do not delay but call your doctor at once. With proper care the attack may be mild and run its course within a short time. Even if it is a light case, however, remember that the danger of complications is present. These can be avoided only by keeping the patient in bed and following your doctor's orders.

Remember, particularly, that although the effects of the ailment may be exceedingly slight in your own child, he may transmit it in a more serious form to another child. So do not consider measles as a simple disease in any case. Give it attention, and the necessary care, for the protection of your own child and other children.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

To the lazy girl, calesthenics are bitter medicine. She can't bear them. Yet, if she would have five minutes of setting-up exercises every morning, in course of time she'd regard them as good fun. They rouse bright spirits, perk up that before-breakfast face, stimulate the circulatory system, help her to start the day with the best foot forward. If she is inclined to be a collector of fat cells, they will be worth while, and, without question, they'll keep muscles limber, make for graceful movement, do a lot toward regaining that girlish shape which is a priceless possession.

Blood red, murderous finger tip polish has ben done to death. Men hate it. No need of using a pale washed-out tint on the pink shells; get a varnish that is slightly richer and pinker than the natural shade, but beware of the gory smear of which beauty followers have grown weary. And don't brush it over the nail eave or the half moon that one cultivates so carefully at the nail base.

Foundation garments can be had that are made of thin fabrics, easily washable. If they are stained with perspiration marks, soak for a time in cold water before washing. Only the naturally slender figure can bear with modern fashions; if there's the slightest tummy bulge or hip spread, a foundation garment should be worn, to impart to the frock that smooth surface which is necessary for smart effect.

The digestive machine has much to do with the state of the complexion. So watch your diet. You need meat, fish, fowl, vegetables, green salads, fruits, and cereals if you are to supply your body with the elements it requires for health and well being.

Listening In

Radio's Busiest Man. Ted Weems on Stage. O'Keefe Flies to Bride.

One of radio's busiest men, Frank Luther, in addition to his solo work and rehearsals and appearances with the Men About Town, makes his bow soon as a member of a harmony duo . . . Ted Weems, in addition to picking up a commercial account, is playing vaudeville engagements in the Middle West . . . James Melton, the tenor, made a cool $2,000 when auto thieves stole his huge limousine—he bought a new car at exactly $2,000 less than he paid for the stolen one, which was fully insured . . .

Mr. Luther

June Purcell, platinum-haired balladist, guest starred at WTAM, Cleveland, recently . . .

Ray Perkins, who offered a prize for a name for his new home, has received more than 10,000 suggestions.

Danger Lies in Letting a Cold Settle in the System!

Get at It Quick, from the Inside!

Never neglect a cold. Even a "slight" cold may be the start of something serious. Treat a cold quickly and treat it thoroughly. Don't fool yourself with half-way measures. A half-cured cold is a cold never cured.

A cold calls for a COLD remedy! Preparations good for half a dozen things besides cold can't be as effective as a cold calls for. Many popular remedies often only make the cold worse because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

A cold calls for internal treatment. A cold is an internal infection and only internal medication will reach it. Local, or external applications are only surface treatments and can't reach the root of the trouble or prevent the infection from spreading within the system.

The 4 Things Necessary

Ask your doctor and he will tell you, the wisest thing you can do when you feel a cold or grippe coming on is to take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This is the treatment a cold calls for. It is direct, internal and complete. It does the several things necessary. First of all, it opens the bowels, a vital step in expelling a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies it against further attack.

Relief with Comfort!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine may be taken with utter safety by young and old. It is non-narcotic and produces no bad after-effects. It does not upset the stomach, nauseate, or make the head ring or swim. Thousands yearly depend on Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine as their protection in all cases of colds and grippe. Thousands tell us that their doctors frankly admit they could write no better prescription.

Every drug store in America sells Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine in convenient, pocket size boxes, cellophane wrapped. Taken promptly a few Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine tablets will usually expel a cold overnight and thus prevent the infection from spreading within the system and becoming dangerous.

Find Way to Cut Costs of Colds More Than Half

Years of research by Vick Chemists resulted last year in development of a new aid in preventing colds—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. It is the ideal companion to Vicks VapoRub, the modern way of treating colds. Together with certain simple rules of health, these preparations form Vicks Plan for better Control of Colds.

Vicks Plan was thoroughly tested and proved last winter. In carefully supervised clinics in schools, colleges and homes, results showed that the Plan reduced the number, duration and severity of colds by half—and cut their costs even more. The satisfaction of hundreds of thousands of enthusiastic users—all over the country—confirm these tests. The Plan is fully explained in each Vicks package.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: I see by the gazettes that Mrs. Charlotte Fixel Erlanger was engaged, after all . . . I mean after all that threatening to sue you for saying a week ago that she would be married . . . I forgot that doll's name you mentioned as doing strips for the Minskys . . . But she phoned and screamed that if you said she was with Minsky again, she'd sue, etc. . . . I forgot to tell you at the time she wasn't with that firm, but with the one on Fourteenth street—two miles or more lower than Minskys . . . Your piece in Portrait about the etcher who is clever and who drives a cab got swell response . . . Arthur Samuels wants to see him, as does Mitchell, the hocusfocus man . . . As you predicted, my kid sister was fired out of Peggy Pears' musical show—after your notice on "Nona" appeared . . . Seemed to me that you were easier than the other critics . . . By all means see "Success Story" at the Elliott, a delightful show, and grand acting by Stella and Luther Adler . . . You forgot my check plus $2.50 for papers, etc.

Gus Edwards wants you to drop in and hear the ditty he sings at the Palace this week—about those who began their careers with him . . . Don't forget Sophie Tucker's premiere at the Paramount Grill . . . Ramon now has control of El Patio and El Garron, Emil Coleman being out of both places. This winds up their long-time tiff . . . Mrs. Koll, who is the majority stockholder in the R.-K.-O. outfit, is now demanding 13 millions as her share of the profits . . . Mention the Eva Tanguay benefit Oct. 16 at the Manhattan.

A new gag in publicity will be unfolded by a national magazine which will have ten star authors do one chapter each on Polah Banks' "Passage to Paradise" flicker . . . If you don't think times have changed get this—Johnny Elliott inserted an ad in the papers last week calling for six gals. Instead of the usual hundred or so girls calling, only about 20 appeared! . . . I think that it was brave and sensible of Jack Foster to give up his radio column that way. His explanation is a corker—he felt that radio wasn't progressing fast enough so that he might grow up with it . . . How many others would give up a by-line in a newspaper to get somewhere in the world? . . . When an interviewer met Guinan in Chicago and said: "You look like a certified check!" Tex laughed and said: "But I feel like an unpaid bill!"

Here's a filler—the local insurance firms pay out on an average of 100 swiped safes annually . . . The heaviest safe stolen was a 3,000-pounder taken from the eighth floor of a loft building . . . Rose Franken, author of the hit "Another Language," didn't know she was to get any more coin than the original advance royalty . . . And how the checks have been rolling in! . . . When Harry Barris opens at the Park Central he will be opposition to two former bosses, Olsen and Whiteman . . . One wag called about Harry Richman's new movie and suggested a title for it—"Biddle Me This" . . . Will H. Hough is happy that after all these years you remember "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," but he wanted to remind you that he wrote the words to it with Frank R. Adams . . . Louis Macloon certainly got that item mixed up for you, no? . . . Is there anything to that talk you are returning to the air—and why? . . . You never looked better confining the routine to the column and reviews . . . Don't be a Winchell all your life! . . . George Bricker very ill at Beth Israel Hosp, poor chap . . . Al Schwartz's eagle orb caught this in a tiny B'way shoe repairing shop window: "We repair heels in 10 minutes. Special attention given actors."

In one of the Broadway turkeys, the leading man and one of the stage hands have the same name . . . When the pay envelopes were distributed Saidee, one stage hand found $15 in his envelope instead of the usual $75 . . . He finally was soothed with the identical-name story . . . Imagine $15 for a leading role! . . . Sam Cheney Schepps has come into possession of a royal suite of furniture, once the property of Looey XVI, a king of France to you! Looey gave it to Marie Antoinette as a gift. Then Albert, King of the Belgians, had it. Sam got it from Duveen, and wants to know if you could use it!!! . . . Two well-known baddies were standing in front of a restaurant last night . . . And a rival chiseler made some cracks they didn't quite like . . . So one said to the other: "Wonder what size sack he wears?" That gag about the man who had the business given to him, which made him miserable, is Dave Murray's . . . J. Schuster called. Says he sees by Variety that that echo from Brooklyn "is telling Hollywood what he thinks of Winchell"—as if you need a press agent in this day and age!

A. E. Willis phoned. Said that many people are staying away from a certain show because they've heard Berle's gags somewhere or other . . . Which reminds George Strack of what Mark Twain said—"How lucky Adam was. He knew when he said a good thing that no one had said it before" . . . Kent Peters called. He is asking 100 persons this: "If you could make one wish and have anything in the world what would you choose?" . . . I told him I thought you would wish that people wouldn't waste your time with questions like that . . . What did you do with my copy of J. Woodford's "Find the Motive?" . . . Corporation Council Hilley destroyed that summons—arguing that he is too busy running the legal affairs of the town without having such nonsense to get in his hair. Goody!

Fred Allen called. He said your gag about him making a trans-Atlantic trip "or what's become of him?" was funny to him, but that three local papers actually called his house to check on it!!! . . . Haw! . . . In spit of the tourist and travel ads Hawaii is not in the South Seas! . . . It's in the North Pacific! . . . Babs Shanton married into the Denver Humphries tribe, not the Doelgers, veddy, veddy soddy . . . A caller suggests that columnists who brag about their news beats be called "egossips"—is your face pink? . . Ruth Etting was in . . . She offered this—America isn't on the gold standard—it's on the lead . . . "Lead me have five. Lead me take. Lead me borrow, etc."

Movie Makers Big Happy Family

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 10. Drawn together by adversity, the producers of Hollywood are becoming just one big family. Like friendly housewives, they borrow each others' stars across the back fence. And there are mighty few reservations.

Yesterday, for instance, Warner Brothers presented Paramount with their romantic ace, George Brent. He'll come over to do one picture, a talkie version of Gina Kaus' novel, "The Crossing." For screen purposes, however, they'll be changing the title to "Luxury Liner."

George Brent

Just as you might suspect, this is a story of the adventures of a group of people on one of those floating palaces plying between Europe and New York. You'll recall Fox made a swell melodrama of this sort called "Trans-Atlantic," but there'll be no similarity in the two films.

A word about George Brent. For a while, fans were promised that Ruth Chatterton and her handsome husband would appear in the same picture. Then he was taken out. Some excuse was given that he could not finish another assignment.

Actually, I predict, Mr. Brent and Miss Chatterton never will appear together on the screen again. She has a theory it would destroy part of the illusion for the fan. And she may be right. How about it?

BOULEVARD TOPICS

Little Renee Adoree has left Hollywood for the Arden Almond Ranch, near Banning. In all probability, she'll spend most of the winter on the desert and stage that comeback in the spring. The facts of the case are these: One of the greatest specialists in the world has pronounced her completely cured of her ailment. But the two years in bed weakened her muscles and she needs to build up her strength.

Renee Adoree

When actors on the "Fu Manchu" set displayed natural squeamishness about handling some de-fanged snakes, the reptile trainer scoffed at them. Then one of the snakes had several blessed events. The trainer told everybody the babies were cute. Until one of them bit him. He was in the hospital for days.

The golf bugs of Hollywood are openly amazed about Clark Gable. Six weeks ago he was a novice. Friday he shot an 84 on a tough local course. The he-man star is so taken up with the game that he will enter the motion picture tournament next Sunday . . . Broadway will not see Helen Hayes this season, unless for a brief visit. The tiny actress has given her promise to make three pictures for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. They'll be "The Son Daughter," "The White Sister" and one other.

Original parties are all the rage in the film colony. Dudley Murphy plots a "Harlem Evening" at his home Wednesday. There will be colored entertainers and guests are invited to come in black-face. Only "mammy singing" in verboten.

Deer Hunter Shot In Cat, Dog Fight

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 10.—(AP.)—All the perils that stalk the trail when a man goes deer hunting were successfully survived by Edward Love, but a cat and dog fight in his own home resulted in his being shot.

Love had returned from hunting and set his gun down in the corner. The cat and a dog struck the gun and discharged a bullet into Love's leg.

Red Dining Rooms Held Divorce Cause

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—If you wish to stay out of the divorce courts don't paint your dining room red. That's the advice of Dudley Crafts Watson, of the Chicago Art Institute. A red dining room, he says, causes a tension in the stomach muscles, which leads to indigestion and eventually to difficulties in the home.

Police Pistol Teams Compete Wednesday

Pistol teams of the highway motor patrol and city, state, borough, township and industrial police departments will compete Wednesday for awards in the Sewickley Heights matches on the Thomas A. Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"The Pure In Heart" will open in the Nixon tonight, being the second Theater Guild play of the season as well as the second in the American Theater Society subscription series. There WILL BE an orchestra in the pit, satisfactory settlement of the difficulty between the theater management and the musicians union having been reached today. June Walker, Osgood Perkins and Thurston Hall head the cast of "The Pure In Heart," which is a comedy by John Howard Lawson. There will be the customary matinees, Wednesday and Saturday.

* * *

In the Pitt tonight the Edwin Vail players will begin their second week, with the production of "As Husbands Go," comedy in which Shirley Booth will portray a refined lady who is married to one man and thinks she is in love with another. Alden Chase will play the leading male part and other members of the company will find themselves well cast. Four matinees are to be given, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

* * *

Although Clemence Dane will not have the pleasure this season of seeing Katharine Cornell in the play she wrote around the Bronte sisters for Miss Cornell, Miss Dane, British author, will visit New York to see her perform in "Rape of Lucrece." Miss Cornell will present the latter some time in December, having postponed production of the Bronte subject, now titled "How Clear the Sun Shines." It may emerge next season.

* * *

A communication from the authors of the book, "Washington Merry-Go-Round," to this department states that the photoplay of the same title is not derived from their work . . . Walter Connolly, sterling stage actor, has signed a three-year contract to work in films during the summer months only . . . "Rain," starring Joan Crawford, will have its Broadway screen premiere Wednesday . . . Irene Rich, of the films, in a sketch, "Ask Your Wife," will begin a tour of vaude stages with a first appearance in Newark next Friday . . . Harry Richman will be the star of the next edition of George White's "Scandals." . . . Effie Ellsler, original star of "Hazel Kirke," once leading woman of one of Pittsburgh's earlier stock companies, will be in the cast of "If I Had a Million," in which a number of veteran players, including May Robson, will appear.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

BY MARK HELLINGER

The Peacemaker

EVEN THE warden said that Johnny didn't belong there. He wasn't a criminal type in the first place. In the second place, he was a mild guy. In the third place, he was forever patching up trouble among convicts who had time on their hands or murder in their eyes.

That's why they called him The Peacemaker. And that's why, probably, they put him in a cell with the toughest mugg in the place—Joe Monti. Now Joe, besides being a bank robber, was suspected of having sent several people to the Happy Hunting Grounds.

Not that he was ever caught. He was usually in a bank after closing time when he was caught. But he was tough. He never seemed happier than when he was in a battle.

Cellmates usually lasted about a month with Joe. And prison attaches predicted that the warden was crazy to put a young kid like The Peacemaker in with him. But the kid fooled them all.

Joe took a liking to him right away. He was getting old, and The Kid was young. And Joe assumed a sort of fatherly air with the boy.

One night, shortly after they started to share bunks, Joe sat on the edge of his lower berth and talked.

"What're you in for boy?" he asked.

"Stickup," said The Peacemaker. "I was with some friends. I didn't know what they were gonna do. But that's no alibi. I got 10 years."

"That's too bad," said Joe. "It's tough on a kid like you to be cooped up in a place like this. Me, I don't mind. I've been in stir before. But you're just a baby."

He paused for a moment. Then he spoke again.

"Funny thing," he mused. "I used to have a youngster like you. He had the same kind of eyes you got, and his hair was like yours, only wavy. I don't know where he is now. I haven't seen him in years."

"That's too bad," The Peacemaker said.

"Yeah," said Joe. "It's too bad."

"That's the way I feel about my dad," said The Peacemaker. "He's been dead now going on four years. But somehow it doesn't seem like he's dead. It seems like he's gone somewhere, and he may come back. Know what I mean?"

"Sure," said Joe. "I know what you mean. How did he die, son?"

"He was killed," he said slowly. "Killed by a stickup guy. Dad was a grocer, see? And he made a mistake. He didn't get his hands up quick enough. The holdup let him have it. Two shots. Right here." He pointed to his heart. "It finished dad."

"Gee," said Joe. "That's tough. That certainly is tough!"

"Yeah," said The Peacemaker. "But it's gonna be tougher when I meet up with the guy that did it. I'll get him—some day. I've promised myself over and over that I'd meet him."

"And what will you do then?" asked Joe.

The eyes changed again. They smiled.

"Now you got me," said The Kid. "Frankly, I don't know. Probably nothing, I guess. I'm built that way. I hate trouble of any kind. I always feel that life is too short to waste fighting. Know what I mean?"

"Sure," said Joe. "I know what you mean" . . .

The Peacemaker and Joe Monti had many a talk after that. They got along like pals. It was the talk of the prison that Joe Monti was actually reforming and would take up crocheting any day now.

But Joe got into trouble now and then. There would be slight arguments during the recess periods sometimes, and Joe would brood over it at night in his cell.

Then the Peacemaker would start talking to him.

"Listen," he'd say. "What have I always told you, Joe? Forget your troubles. Don't fight and don't worry. Life is too short to waste fighting. C'mon. Buck up."

Somehow those few words worked wonders. Somehow Joe would brighten up after that. Somehow he believed The Kid's philosophy that "Life is too short."

And, largely through the change effected in Joe, the parole board found that his prison record was good and that his term could be shortened eighteen months. The Peacemaker was so happy when he heard the news that he tried to do a handspring in the cell and almost fractured his skull.

But the biggest thrill of all came when the warden told The Kid that he would be freed on the same day as Joe Monti. The Peacemaker immediately started to lay plans about where they would go and what they would do.

And Joe Monti smiled from ear to ear . . .

It was a bright morning, that day. They walked into the warden's office and he handed each of them a few dollars, which the state allows. Then he gave them envelopes with their stickpins, coin and watches in them.

They walked all the way to the railroad station for no reason other than to sense the freedom of it. When they got there they walked inside and asked the station master when the next train would leave for New York.

"Eleven forty-three," the station master said. "It's an express."

"That'll be in 17 minutes, Kiddo. Then we're off for the big burg."

The Peacemaker said nothing. He was staring at Joe Monti's watch. His eyes looked dazed. Then his lips narrowed into tiny slits and his lips compressed as though he were in pain.

Like a tiger, he lunged for Joe's throat. His fingers stretched around the neck and tightened. Joe made a gurgling sound and tried to push The Kid away. His eyes popped from his head.

The Peacemaker screamed hysterically:

"That watch! That watch! You murderer! It's my father's, you dirty louse! You killed him! You killed my Dad!"

The station master ran for help. Joe was stronger than The Kid, but that grip was like steel. When they finally pried The Peacemaker's hands from Joe's throat, the eyes were still staring.

The doctor testified at the trial that a heart attack had hastened the death. And, despite the story of the watch, The Peacemaker was sentenced to 20 years at hard labor . . .

They don't call him The Peacemaker now. He's sullen and silent most of the time. He refuses to be friendly with anybody. And they don't call him The Kid either. For he's not a kid any longer. Years of prison life have aged him a lot.

Funny thing, though. He feels happy that he killed Joe for murdering his father. What he doesn't know is that getting that watch was one of the few honest things Joe Monti ever did. He had bought it in a cheap pawnshop! . . .

Actor Connolly Stays In Hollywood

Walter Connolly, character actor of the New York legitimate stage, who was imported to Hollywood recently by Columbia for the role of Schultz in "The Bitter Tea of Gen. Yen" and remained for a featured part in "Washington Merry-Go-Round," has been assigned chief roles in "Plainclothes Man" and "No More Orchids." He will appear as an overlord of the underworld in "Plainclothes Man," Jack Holt's latest film.

Stage Thriller to Be Fillmed

"The Crime of the Century," staged in Europe last winter, is to be filmed for Paramount release. William Beaudine has been signed as the director, but no cast has been selected to date. Florence Ryerson and Endre Bohem are now at work on the screen play, which they are adapting from Walter Maria Espe's mystery thriller.

MGM Studios Have Chinese Flavor

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios seem to have gone Oriental these days. What with Chinese actors in "The Mask of Fu Manchu" and "Red Dust," Americans made up as Chinese for "The Son Daughter" and other Orientals testing for the same picture, the studio is decidedly "Chinesey"—save for about a hundred Germans appearing with Wallace Beery in the German sequences of "Flesh."

'MA' FERGUSON REFUSED HELP BY STERLING

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 10.—The bitter wounds of intra-party Democratic strife in Texas were laid open again today after Gov. R. S. Sterling's announcement he would not support Mrs. Miriam A (Ma) Ferguson for governor in the November election.

The Governor's appeal from a District Court ruling which had dismissed his suit contesting Mrs. Ferguson's nomination on charges of fraud, was denied Saturday by the State Supreme Court. Sunday the Governor said he was "unwilling to cast a vote to turn the state over to Mrs. Ferguson and her husband," ex-Gov. James E. Ferguson, who was impeached in 1917.

CHARGED ILLEGAL VOTES

Returns showed Sterling lost to Mrs. Ferguson by approximately 4,000 votes in the August Democratic run-off primary. His contest suit claimed nearly 50,000 votes were cast illegally in Mrs. Ferguson's favor. The answer filed on behalf of Mrs. Ferguson likewise claimed many illegal votes were cast for the Governor.

Gov. Sterling said:

"Knowing Jim's record and having declared it to the people of Texas, I would consider it an act of positive dishonor to cast my vote to put the government of Texas in his hands.

"It my understanding that it is generally conceded an frankly admitted that if Mrs. Ferguson is elected governor her husband will dominate the affairs of the office and act as Governor in fact."

AID FOR G. O. P. MAN

Asked if he would support Orville Bullington, of Wichita Falls, the Republican nominee, Gov. Sterling replied:

"The statement speaks for itself."

A group of Democratic leaders who had supported Sterling and who recently organized the League of Anti-Ferguson Democrats, announced they would support Bullington.

Mrs. Ferguson, governor in 1925-26, issued a statement pleading for party harmony after the court ordered her name placed on the ballot.

NEW GROUP TO BE ORGANIZED TO AID TAX CUT FIGHT

ATTACKS WIFE WITH HAMMER, ENDS LIFE

Child's Cries Bring Neighbors as Man Runs Amuck

Michael Donoghue, 48, of 730 Ohio street, Glassport, is dead today, and his wife, Mary, 50, is in a critical condition in the McKeesport Hospital with a compound fracture of the skull suffered when Donoghue ran amuck in his home with a hammer late yesterday. Following the attack upon his wife, Donoghue fled to the cellar, where he slashed his throat with a razor.

Screams of 5-year-old Betty McGuffin, who was staying with the Donoghues while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McGuffin, were at work, brought neighbors to the home. They found the woman unconscious on the living room floor, her head crushed by blows from the hammer. The body of her husband was found in the cellar in the rear of a basement kitchen.

The child told police she was in the living room on the first floor of the apartment when Donoghue attacked his wife with a three-pound machinist's hammer.

She fled screaming to the street, where her cries attracted Harris Lanstrom and his wife, and William Hinchey. They summoned police.

Mrs. Donoghue was removed to the hospital, where her condition is said to be critical. Police said Donoghue, a laborer, had been unemployed for the last nine months. The two have no children.

INDIVIDUALISM HIT BY RABBI

A plea to the Jewish people to avoid a spirit of individualism which he declared is pervading the world, was voiced by Rabbi Samuel H. Goldenson last night in an address at Carnegie Music Hall as Jews observed the fast of Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, which began at sunset.

Declaring too much significance is placed upon money and that people are ignoring the finer things of life, Rabbi Goldenson declared:

"There's something radically wrong with a nation when the highest executive of the first city of the world, after having his malpractice exposed, can still be popular enough with thousands so that they intended to return him to his former high position.

"The trouble is that we have made money god. The finer things of life are completely ignored. When more people 'do justice, have mercy, and walk humbly in the eyes of the Lord,' the world will be better."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SAN SALVADOR, Oct. 10.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

This is San Salvador. The U. S. don't recognize this government because it's supposed to come in during a revolution something like Washington did in America. It's a beautiful country, so I am recognizing it in behalf of Huey Long, Jim Ferguson and Bill Murray, the three "American Musketeers." Those three old boys would not recognize anything unless it had had a fight to get in. I am a "joint" commission going through South America for Hoover and Roosevelt "jointly."

Yours, WILL.

G. O. P. Has Had 12 Long Years Of Promises

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

There is a desperate harmony within the G. O. P. That has all the co-ordination of a drowning man fighting a life guard.

Uncle Joe Cannon said that few die and none resign. The old guard will go down struggling. They hate to give up their steam-heated appropriations and plush-covered careers.

But they're going down so far they will come up with sea weed in their hair. Four years of table rapping and crystal gazing is a long political seance. And two roosters in every pot lay no eggs.

We don't think the Republicans should feel so bad about it. They've had 12 years of uninterrupted promises.

Famed Variety Theater To Show Only Films

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—The Palace Theater, long the Broadway goal of all vaudeville actors, is to become a two-a-day motion picture house.

Announcement that the famous theater, which had come to be known as the home of vaudeville, will be changed into a movie house sometime during November, was made today by the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, which controls the property.

The Palace, which was opened on March 24, 1913, as a music hall and variety theater, was operated as a two-a-day vaudeville house until last May, when it was placed on a continuous run basis with motion pictures and variety numbers included on the programs.

REGISTRATION FOR PRESIDENTIAL VOTE HERE DECLINES

170,000 LIKELY TO BALLOT IN CITY

Approximately 170,000 voters will be eligible to cast ballots at the November election in Pittsburgh, or about 13,000 less than the number qualified in the presidential election of 1928, according to estimates of the Registration Board.

A tabulation of 45 districts on registration Saturday, the third and last registration day, showed 9,100 persons registered, an average of 190 to a district. On the same basis the total for the 407 districts in the city would be 77,330.

Registration on the first day was 36,787, and on the second, 54,633. Saturday's surprisingly large turnout of voters to qualify boosted the total registration far beyond previous estimates.

State Enrollment Shows Drop of 25 Per Cent

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Scattered unofficial estimates of Saturday's registration of Pennsylvania voters appeared today to indicate an enrollment 10 to 25 per cent under that of 1928.

Official returns began to reach county officials today by mail from registrars who sat on Saturday for the third and final registration day, but the compilation of these figures and totaling with the results of the first two days' enrollment, officials said, probably will not be completed for several days.

Of the unofficial estimates, the figures ranged from 60 per cent of the 1928 total in Scranton to 89 per cent in York and Greensburg.

PHILADELPHIA BEST

In Philadelphia, it was estimated about 200,000 voters registered on Saturday. This number, added to the 377,135 who enrolled on the first two days, would bring the total to 577,135, or about 78 per cent of the total 1928 registration of 733,917, the largest in the history of the city.

Other unofficial reports gave Altoona a 1932 total of 18,000 as against 1928's 21,681, a decrease of 17 per cent; Meadville, 4,843 against 6,100 a 22 per cent falling off; Greensburg, 5,432 against 6,068, a drop of 11 per cent; Johnstown, 14,021 against 18,632, a decrease of 23 per cent, and Uniontown, 5,381 against 7,055, a 24 per cent decrease.

Four years ago 3,971,876 voters registered in Pennsylvania. Of these 2,861,999 were enrolled as Republicans and 876,391 as Democrats. In the balloting President Hoover received 2,055,382 votes and Alfred E. Smith 1,067,584.

RELIEF DELAYS STIR WAGNER

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(Universal.)—United States Senator Wagner today had denounced federal "procrastination" in providing relief and employment for the destitute. He charged the program of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was tied up "with mile upon mile of red tape."

Speaking over WOR in a radio interview on unemployment with Merryle Stanley Rukeyser, financial writer for the Hearst newspapers, he quoted official estimates that 10,000,000 are unemployed. He added:

"It is a certainty that this fourth winter of unemployment will witness the most widespread and serious destitution ever experienced in this country."

The relief and construction program appropriating $2,000,000,000 for use in providing work and relief would be worse than useless unless it is put into operation with all the energy at our command, he concluded.

HEARING ROOM BIDS ASKED BY COUNTY

All the County Commissioners will need when their new hearing room in the Courthouse is completed will be a uniformed doorman and a master of ceremonies to complete the movie palace motif.

Contracts are now being advertised for equipping the new hearing room on the fourth floor of the Courthouse which formerly was the transcribing room of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes.

Director of Property and Supplies Ray Sprigle has estimated it will cost $6,484.25 to fix up the room. His figures show: $2,050 for flooring; theater seats, $1,300; drapes, six navy blue, $133; acoustics, 85 percent coefficient, $1,140; detail millwork, plain oak, $1,501.25 and electrical fixtures (new) $360. These figures do not include labor charges.

In explaining, the new room is being fitted out because the present meeting room in the new county building is too noisy, poorly ventilated and wholly unsatisfactory Sprigle said:

"The idea is to give the public a comfortable place to listen to the conduct of the county's business and the commissioners a quiet place to meet. The present quarters are extremely unsatisfactory from every standpoint."

MYSTERY FIRES BURN BOWSER BARNS

KITTANNING, Pa., Oct. 10.—State police today probed the simultaneous fires in three Cowansville road barns of Watson Bowser, contractor, under indictment in Pittsburgh in connection with the county airport trucking job.

Wilbur Bowser, a brother, living on one of the farms, discovered the fires when awakened by the barking of a dog. The fires broke out within 15 minutes of each other. Three cows and a calf were burned to death. One hundred head of cattle and horses were released from the barn on the farm occupied by C. Y. Bowser, the contractor's father. All grain and feed, together with farm implements were destroyed, causing a loss estimated at $30,000.

Police said it would have been impossible for one man to have set all buildings on fire and suspect an arson ring, although no evidence of incendiarism was found.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

Today is one of the biggest days socially that we'll have this fall, for there are no less than two weddings of note this afternoon!

One will be at 5 o'clock and the other at 5:30, and both will be in the East End.

The bride of 5 o'clock will be that of Mary Hill, Jerome Hill's daughter, who'll become Mrs. William Metcalf Doolittle in Calvary Episcopal Church.

And the bride of 5:30 will be Christine Johnson, the Hussey Burdell Johnson's petite daughter. She'll marry Charles N. Lennox, of the Pennsylvania Apartments.

* * *

Mrs. James Barlow Cullum, of Sewickley, who has been living in New York for some time, has given up her apartment in Park avenue, Gotham, and is at the Plaza for a short time. She'll go soon to her Reading place, Riveredge Farm.

Her daughter, Mollie, will stay with Cornelia Prime, Park avenue, New York, for several weeks.

* * *

After the weddings today, we have something to anticipate tomorrow, something that no feminine person can resist, a fashion show.

Fashion Show

I mentioned a few days ago that the Junior League would sponsor a fashion show in the clubrooms in the Clark Building tomorrow, and that the price of admission would be rummage, to be sold by the Junior League Thrift Shop, 5427 Penn avenue, which maintains the Junior League Nutrition Clinic at the Falk Clinic.

Now I know the hours of the show. There'll be one at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, another at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and a third at 3 o'clock.

And the models will be Clodagh McCune, Mrs. John McKelvy, Mrs. William Standish, Mrs. Ellen Stone Bailey, Caroline Mitchell and Mrs. Harold Kipp.

And that attractive young matron, Mrs. Frederick Gwinner III, will be in charge of the shows, aided by Mrs. George A. Kelly III.

Buds Make Bows At Public Balls This Season

By MARY HACKER

LONDON, Oct. 10. — The little season is now in full swing and London was never gayer. Theaters and fashionable restaurants are crowded; the depression seems forgotten.

The unwritten law against bringing out debutantes at other than private dances was frequently broken this season, many of the buds making their debuts at charity public balls.

This is expected to be particularly true at the United Hunt ball, which attracts most of the huntsmen from the hinterland shires. Apart from the court levees, this is by far the most colorful function of the London season.

Another novelty of this little season is the first Anglo-German ball since 1914. It has been organized by Lady Cunard and is expected to bring together many debutantes and members of the diplomatic corps.

Recent dinner guests of Julian Humphreys included Lady Newborough, Sir George and Lady May and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sloan, of New York.

Mourning for the death of his wife prevents Lord Beatty from doing any fox hunting. He and his sons will go to the United States. After the visit, Lord Beatty will go on a long yachting cruise.

Mrs. James A. Roosevelt To Visit Mrs. H. S. Lehr

NEW YORK.—Mrs. James A. Roosevelt will spend a fortnight in Paris with Mrs. Henry S. Lehr before returning to America later this month from her European travels.

Cornelius Vanderbilts Close Home in Newport

NEW YORK.—Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt have returned to their town house after closing Beaulieu, their summer residence in Newport, R. I.

Miss Anne Daub Has Nuptials In Home

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore G. Daub, of McPherson boulevard, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Anne Woodside Daub, to John Henry Coruthers, which was solemnized in their home at 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, by the Rev. Dr. A. Gordon MacLennan, of Shadyside United Presbyterian Church.

The bride wore a princess gown of shell pink lace, and carried Johanna Hill roses. Her mother wore green lace. There were no attendants. After the ceremony there was a small reception.

After a southern wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Coruthers will be at home in St. Louis, Mo., about November 1. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Missouri and of the University of Missouri Law School.

Rita Mitchell To Make Bow On Dec. 26

NEW YORK.—Miss Rita Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Mitchell, will be presented to society at a supper dance given by her parents at their Fifth avenue town house, December 26. Last winter Rita attended La Petite Ecole Florentine in Florence, Italy. She was presented to Queen Elena of Italy last March.

Miss Marjorie Schuyler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Van Rensselaer Schuyler and Miss Kate L. Young, daughter of Mrs. William Garrett Bibb, will be presented jointly at a tea dance, December 17, at the Pierre.

All three young women have been invited to attend the autumn ball at Tuxedo Park.

Princess Marie Louise of Reuss, member of the royal family of Germany, is expected to be introduced to New York society some time this winter. She is the daughter of Prince Henry of Reuss and stepdaughter of the former Mrs. Anson Wood Buchard of New York.

Maxim Karolik Imports Prize Pigeons to Newport

TO DRESS ACCORDING TO TYPE IS SECRET OF CHIC SAYS PARIS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 10. — More than one Paris designer has confessed that in planning the clothes which make up the quarterly fashion collections he divides all women into two classes—those who wear frills and ruffles and voluminous furs, and those who look their best when their gowns are severely plain and devoid of all but the simplest trimming. Further than that, many a designer claims that each woman should give herself a careful analysis, deciding to which class she belongs, then dress accordingly.

* * *

THERE IS, apparently, no one style which goes well for everyone. Although many of the advance fashions shown in Paris right now are simple and classic, there is also a certain luxuriousness about many of the clothes—lavish materials, such as the hand-made tweeds shown at Maggy-Rouff; genuine jewels, such as those set by Mauboussin and shown with Lelong gowns; full-length evening wraps made of the finest ermine, such as shown by Augustabernard.

* * *

IDEAL CLOTHES for the two types of women are shown in these sketches. The tailored dress, done by Molyneux, is—for a certain type of trimly built woman—the only correct costume for attention. On the other hand, there is the other type of woman who would be at home only in the formal suit of two tones of gray broadcloth, combined with gray fox, done by Maggy-Rouff.

* * *

THE MOLYNEUX dress is made of one of those new crepey woolens of light weight and dull surface, which looks and feels a great deal like silk. The rolled scarf around the high wide neckline is of the navy blue combined with the same material in white.

* * *

BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

M'CLOY SALES SHOW BIG GAIN

August is generally considered the slowest month in the stationery business, but the McCloy Company, 642 Liberty avenue, reports an actual increase of 25 per cent in August sales over July, according to W. K. Morris, recently appointed manager. He said:

"As a further indication that business has turned the corner, September continued with an additional 25 per cent increase over August. Cash sales have increased 80 per cent since June, 1932."

Mr. Morris

Founded in 1879 by A. W. McCloy, Sr., McCloy's have always been exclusive distributors for a number of articles available nowhere else in Pittsburgh.

Their present stock of exclusive items includes the sole distributorship of the only 10-cent automatic pencil on the market, a certain type of binder for loose-leaf ledgers, a well known filing system for doctors and dentists, a popular system of filing supplies as well as several Pittsburgh products, ink, mailing tubes and street guides.

SPACE INCREASED

The floor space of the original establishment in the Paulson Buiding, Wood street, was approximately 30 by 50 feet. Later the store was located at Smithfield and Diamond streets and then occupied the building at 443 Wood street for 15 years. An expansion of business in 1905 necessitated moving to the present quarters at 642 Liberty avenue, where the store has been located for the last 27 years.

The quality of service which has made the McCloy name familiar to businessmen within a radius of 100 miles of Pittsburgh is partially due to experience and knowledge of the sales personnel, many of whom have been with the McCloy company for more than a quarter of a century.

PENS REPAIRED

They are able to assist a businessmen to set up his books, order his office furniture and advise him concerning the best office equipment and filing systems for his individual needs. The repair of fountain pens has long been considered a distinctive McCloy service.

Steel's Road Asks Recapture Hearing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The Duluth and Iron Range Railroad Company, owned by the United States Steel Corporation, has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to reopen for further hearing proceedings in which the commission seeks to recapture alleged excess net operating income. The carrier desires to supplement the record in the case with additional evidence.

A New Type of Delivery Truck

COPPER MARKET VERY QUIET

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Copper quotations in first hand sources last week were largely nominal at 6¼c for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley, owing to absence of demand. European markets were lower, reflecting cheap offerings of foreign producers. Domestic consumers have have withheld from purchases owing to appearances of resale metal at concessions, but producers remain firm in their price ideas.

Advances in lead attracted good consuming demand early in the week, but when large producers increased offerings demand tapered off and the market displayed a slightly easier undertone at the close.

Zinc remained quiet, and in the absence of buying interest offerings increased moderately at slightly lower levels. September statistics, showing a further decrease in smelters' stocks attracted favorable comment but apparently failed to stimulate demand.

Antimony remained idle, and in the absence of business quotations were nominal.

Ford Motor Car Output Expands

DETROIT, Oct. 10.—The Ford Motor Company is advancing output schedules this week in response to a 30 per cent gain in retail sales during the last 10 days of September over the preceding 10 days.

Norge Refrigerator September Sales Up

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—Sales of Norge rollator refrigerators during September were 108 per cent of the August sales, according to H. E. Blood, president of the Norge Corporation.

	Whole. and Job. Trade	Retail Trade	Mfg. and Industry	Collections	Crops
Pittsburgh	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	Good
Chicago	Good	Good	Quiet	Fair	Good

Omaha	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	Good
St. Louis	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	.....
St. Paul	Quiet	Quiet	Fair	Slow	.....
Baltimore	Fair	Fair	Quiet	Slow	Fair

Pittsburgh—Glass production on upgrade; coal shipments below 1931; retail movement satisfactory; industry generally preparing for anticipated activity; collections backward.

Chicago—Fall mart brings more buyers than last year; clothing manufacturers steadily increasing output; steel operations advance to 17 per cent; structural material bought liberally for public works; live stock prices recede.

Cleveland—Steel industry on 20 per cent production basis; retail buying increases; wholesale orders larger than in months; railroad shops active; demand for clothing, textiles and shoes more than seasonal.

Detroit—Wholesale and retail trades maintain improvement occasioned by seasonable weather; building supplies in better demand, while roofing supplies get more than seasonal call; collections equal 1931; crop harvest good.

Business — Loan Demands On Life Companies Show Decrease

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

DEMANDS FOR LOANS by holders of life insurance policies declined sharply in September. This is improving the financial position of these organizations and, if the trend continues, will eventually have a pronounced effect on the market for securities.

Some of the larger life insurance companies report that requests for loans from policy holders last month amounted to about 65 per cent of the peak demand which occurred in June. This reduced rate of loan demand is continuing this month and in some cases brings the loan applications down to the level of September, 1931, when borrowings on life insuranre started to increase.

Under normal conditions the insurance companies account for a major share of the investment demand for high grade bonds, and real estate mortgages. Premiums received from policy holders and income from investments usually exceed the amounts which the insurance companies must pay out for claims, expenses and loans. The surplus of income over these expenses ordinarily is invested.

* * *

Companies Cut Down On New Investments

THE SHARP increase in applications for loans which resulted from the strained business conditions of the past year naturally affected the investment practices of the insurance companies. Faced with heavy demands for cash and with no certain knowledge of how far the loan demands would go, most insurance companies discontinued making new investments and kept their income in the form of cash in order to be prepared to meet any eventualities.

As a result of the drop in demands for loans, some of the companies now have the largest cash reserves in their histories. A few of the organizations are coming back into the market for municipal bonds and, in some cases, insurance companies have bought substantial portions of the recent offerings of utility bonds. Other organizations are confining current investment activity to United States government securities.

* * *

Investment Activity May Increase Soon

IF THE DOWN trend in loan applications continues, it can readily be seen that the life insurance companies may resume their normal position in the investment market. This will materially help the bond market. Eventually the improved position of the life insurance companies also will be felt in the real estate situation since these companies always have been large holders of mortgages.

Several factors were responsible for the heavy demand for loans on insurance policies and the drop in demands for loans can be traced to improvement in each.

Among these were unemployment, bank closings, calling of loans by banks, and margin calls of brokers. The improvement in employment conditions has been slight but bank closings have been practically eliminated and many closed institutions have been making payments to depositors. Recent strength in the prices of stocks and bonds removed the pressure on loans against securities.

Canadian Markets Observe Holiday

OTTAWA, Oct. 10.—All major stock exchanges, commodity and livestock markets in Canada were closed today in observance of Thanksgiving Day.

TEXTILE TRADE HAS SHARP GAIN

Greater than seasonal improvement in textile production and sales that began in August continued throughout September and gives promise of gaining momentum as activity reaches its customary mid-winter peak, according to an analysis of the industry's outlook just issued by Frazier Jelke & Co. At least 50,000 mill hands have been recalled by cotton goods manufacturers, it is estimated, and in spite of resumption of 24-hour operation in many textile centers stocks of finished goods at the end of last month decreased considerably below the abnormally low August 31 figures.

From the low point of July cotton goods production has increased about 57 per cent, September output having gained about 22 per cent over August, which recorded an improvement of 28 per cent over July, the firm points out. The analysis continues:

"Production has rapidly increased in cotton goods, woolens and rayons since the summer lull as a result of the unexpected expansion in consumer demand, which found supplies of finished goods almost non-existent. Improvement occurred about evenly in all branches of cotton goods and in about the same ratios in the South as in New England.

"In cotton goods the sharp rise in production recorded in August was almost duplicated last month, preliminary trade figures indicate. Weekly output of carded cotton cloths in September approximated 55,000,000 yards, compared with 45,195,000 in August and with 35,418,000 in July, the low point for the last 20 years."

ACCEPTANCES FAVORED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Notorious credit abuses within the construction industry, which have long worked to the competitive disadvantage of responsible general contractors, may be successfully curbed by general adoption of a proposal to be considered by the governing board of the Associated General Contractors of America, at its fall meeting here today and tomorrow, Eward J. Harding, managing director, announces.

The proposal, which is based upon a recent general recommendation of the finance department of the United States Chamber of Commerce, is to substitute the trade acceptance for the open-book account in the sale of materials and supplies to contractors.

Pointing out that, under the widespread abuses of the open account system, responsible contractors who pay their bills are to a large extent being required to finance their irresponsible competitors, Harding says that he believes that this injustice eventually might be eliminated by having each transaction between the contractor and the manufacturer or dealer represented by a negotiable instrument such as the trade acceptance.

Wholesale Prices Record Sharp Dip

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(INS.)—Commodity prices, as measured by the weekly wholesale price index of the National Fertilizer Association, declined sharply last week. The general index number dropped from 62.0 to 60.9. This was the largest weekly decline in the general price index for many months and follows three consecutive small weekly losses. Although the price index has dropped sharply during the latest month, the latest index number, 60.9, is still more than one full point higher than the record low, 59.6, reached on June 11, 1932. (The three-year average 1926-1928 equals 100.)

September Money Circulation Down

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(INS.)—Gold in circulation declined $4,523,000 during September, the first drop in more than a year, according to figures issued by the Treasury today.

The total amount of money in circulation at the end of September was $5,65,212,000, a decrease of $39,000,000 for the month and an increase of $407,000,000 in a year.

Gold stocks at the end of September were $4,181,221,000, an increase of $105,000,000 during the month and a decrease of $547,000,000 in a year.

PENN MUTUAL AGENCY WINS TROPHY

The local general agency of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company under the leadership of Holgar J. Johnson at the end of the third quarter was awarded the trophy given by Vice President John A. Stevenson. This trophy was awarded on the basis of increased production over and above other agencies competing for the trophy.

The real contest for this trophy has been between Harrisburg and Pittsburgh. This makes the second quarter during this year that the trophy has been awarded to the local agency. Mr. Johnson reports:

"The quarter just closed was the largest third quarter of business that the local agency has had in the past four years and there is a definite trend upward in the sale of life insurance."

Albert F. Randolph was the leader in production for the local office during this three months' period. Randolph, who is a University of Pittsburgh graduate, has had the distinction in the company for being a consistent producer, securing business every week for over two years. He was a speaker at the Penn Mutual's national convention at White Sulphur Springs during the past month.

NEW ENGLAND TRADE UP

The National Shawmut Bank of Boston reports in its current summary of New England business that conditions improved in New England during August.

This improvement was reflected in higher commodity prices, greater distribution of finished and semi-finished goods, increased productive activity and greater employment in certain lines of industry. The bank notes an especially sharp increase in textile operations. Employment and average weekly earnings per employe also increased during August in Massachusetts manufacturing establishments, mainly in cotton, woolen and worsted goods, clothing and boots and shoes.

Reports available in September indicated a continuation of the improved trend in New England business and the review states that although reports of the establishment of new firms, reopening of closed plants, and expansion programs have reference mainly to textiles, clothing and shoe producers, there have been reports of improvement in such lines as rubber, metals and construction.

Gas Sales Decline 9% in Eight Months

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Total gas sales for manufactured and natural gas utilities in first eight months, 1932, show drop of 9 per cent from same period in 1931. Combined revenue dropped 7 per cent, says the American Gas Association.

Companies representing 90 per cent of the public utility distribution of natural gas had sales totaling 429,500,000,000 cubic feet in that period, a drop of 11 per cent. Industrial sales for that division dropped 15 per cent.

Business Leaders Think Worst Over

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Of more than 100 executives of representatives industries who replied by wire or letter to a telegraphic survey made by Lehman Brothers late last week, the large majority were definitely of the opinion that the bottom of the depression had been seen. Ample evidence appeared in all but a few industries of a definite improvement and a return of confidence.

PANTHER-DUQUESNE GAME ANALYZED BY HARPSTER

PITT LEADS IN DISTRICT

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Cub Course Questioned. — Tennis Crowns in Paris.

DUKES FACE RARE POWER WITH CREDIT

TODAY AS ALWAYS, and in football as well as in anything else, the thing that counts is not whether you won or lost, but how you played the game. In spite of the 33-to-0 score against them, the Duquesne University gridders came out of the Pitt test Saturday with every right to hold their heads high in the air. The score is not a true reflection of the nature of the game. The Dukes were not disgraced by any means. They gave the best they had every minute of the time, and they kept on fighting against a superior foe right down to the last ditch with a spirit that did credit to themselves and their school.

Mike Sebastian

It was rare Pitt strength, not any Duquesne weakness that caused the one-sided score. Many an older and longer established team than the Dukes would have met the same fate. The Panthers' game at time was not perfect, but in the main they gave evidence of power that stamps the 1932 outfit one of Dr. Sutherland's best. A team on which a performer like Mike Sebastian, with a benchful on almost the same order, must be classified as merely reserve material, is bound to finish very high in the national ranking, and its later games will make it clear that Duquesne's showing was better than the figures would seem to indicate. Spirit is the thing that keeps a school going forward and the Dukes left no doubt that they have it. Carnegie Tech lost nine times to Pitt before tasting victory, but the Skibos eventually got up there. So will Duquesne, and the experience gained Saturday will be a big lift. The announcement that the game will be renewed next year, and possibly develop into an annual fixture, is pleasing to every fan in the district.

IF IT HAD not been already indicated by signs in other directions, a further slicing of baseball salaries all along the main line for 1933 could be clearly foreseen in Connie Mack's explanation of the Simmons-Dykes-Haas sale. Mack says the attendance at the games of the A's fell off 40 per cent. The heavy payroll caused a loss.

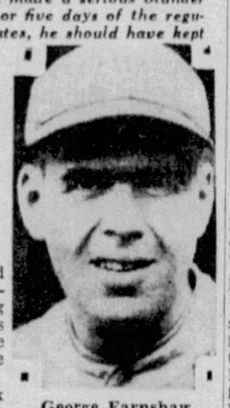
That other owners also are preparing to retrench further for next year may be gathered from Mack's disclosure that when waivers were first asked on Jimmy Dykes, all of the remaining clubs in both big leagues, including the White Sox, refused to claim him. It was not, Mack says, because they put a low rating on Jimmy's playing ability, but because Dykes was the highest-salaried third baseman in the American League. They're all getting ready to cut expenses and none would assume the Dykes burden.

WHICH IS THE better for a league—a close and hard-fought pennant race in which the outcome is in doubt until the closing days, or a spectacular showing in the world series after a lopsided flag hunt? John A. Heydler, president of the National, is one who does not prefer the world series glory.

"As between a tight and interesting pennant race all the way, and a grand showing in the world series," he said, "I'd choose a tussle for the flag every time."

"SHOWINGS IN THE world series depend largely on the mental and physical condition of the contesting clubs," Heydler continued. "I believe that Charley Grimm made a serious blunder in letting down the Cubs in the last four or five days of the regular season. Instead of sending in substitutes, he should have kept the regulars going at top speed. The Cubs went into the last week of the season on a high wave of momentum. They won the pennant by having that aggressive, devil-may-care mental attitude. It would have been better if Grimm had done everything possible to maintain that attitude rather than give some of the players a letdown. It's all right to rest if you have a couple of weeks to go, but it's a mistake to rest regulars with only a few days left."

THOUGH CONNIE MACK has assured Philadelphia fans that Pitcher George Earnshaw, as well as the other stars remaining on the roster, will continue with the A's next year, it is no secret in American League circles that Earnshaw was offered for sale some time ago.



George Earnshaw

That was another plan whereby Mack hoped to replenish the treasury and reduce the overhead for next year. But apparently nobody wants the veteran right-hander at the high price demanded, and with Earnshaw holding a contract for one more year at a salary around $25,000.

MACK'S DECISION TO keep Earnshaw has reopened speculation as to the 1933 destination of Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland mound ace. It had been rumored that Ferrell was to go to the A's in some sort of exchange to replace Earnshaw, but evidently that's all off.

With Roger Peckinpaugh retained as manager of the Indians, it is considered unlikely that Ferrell will be kept. Just where the pitcher will go, however, has American League dopesters guessing. The Yankees want him, but Alva Bradley says New York is out.

IT IS THE opinion of Tony Canzoneri that if he gets past Billy Petrolle on November 4 with his lightweight crown still on straight—it won't be at stake in Wednesday night's tangle with Frankie Petrolle—his next important money shot will be with Barney Ross, the newest threat from Chicago. Ross, a Jewish youngster just 21, has been coming along. Recently he has won a decision over Ray Miller, knocked out Frankie Petrolle and stopped Dick Sisk.

PLAYING IN JOHNSTOWN in 1925. Let go by the Pirates as hopeless in 1928. Two years later voted the most valuable player in the American League and in just two years more made manager of the Washington Senators. And only 26 Wednesday.

With his managerial appointment to succeed Walter Johnson as a climax, Joe Cronin, youngest pilot is major league history, surely has turned in a career for the story books. No player ever was more deserving of success. Cronin is one of the cleanest boys that ever threw a baseball.

WANT TO KNOW who's going to win the tennis championship of the United States next year? No, not Ellsworth Vines. He's pretty good, but the fates are against him now. Don't tell a soul, but the crown is to be taken across the Atlantic by a foreigner in the person of Fred Perry, of England.

That is, if you care to place your faith in a line of dope that has held for five years without a break. It has to do with the annual Pacific Southwest title tournament, the 1932 edition of which was run off recently in Los Angeles.

Fred Perry

WHEN THIS TOURNEY was first held in 1927, it was won by Henri Cochet, and in 1928 Cochet became champion of America. In 1928 Bill Tilden took the Pacific Southwest event, and 1929 saw him regaining the United States title which he had not held since 1925. In 1929, Johnny Doeg was the Los Angeles winner, and the following year he ascended the national throne. In 1930, Vines captured the coast honors to go right on to the American championship one year later. He won in California again in 1931 and retained the leadership of the Union this year. Recently, Perry swept the 1932 Pacific Southwest tourney so it would seem that he just can't miss being singles king of the U. S. A. next year.

BOX DEFENSE COSTLY FOR LOSERS

By Howard Harpster

Geneva College Coach, Carnegie Tech All-America Quarterback, 1928.

My guess of last Friday that Pitt wouldn't beat the Dukes by more than three touchdowns was right—that is, it was right up until the end of the third quarter. Then, in the fourth period, I got a little mixed up, for it wasn't in the dope that the Dukes were going to pass over the goal on second down from only the five-yard line, and that Krankota wasn't going to squeeze the ball a little tighter.

Mr. Harpster

Also, the Dukes weren't figured to be caught napping on Pitt's fourth touchdown. On the play in question, Pitt had the ball on the Duquesne 11-yard line and it was fourth down with six yards to go for first down. The Dukes remained in close in their customary box defense, even though it was obvious that the coming play likely would be a pass. And a pass it was, Matesic to Nicksick, over the goal line, with the receiver catching the ball unmolested.

Now that my guess has been vindicated (I really didn't have the slightest idea of what the score would be) let's get on with the game.

DUKES FIGHT HARD

The Dukes put up a good fight all of the way through, but couldn't match the speed and running ability of the Panther backs nor the power and strength of the Pitt line. Then, too, the fact that Pitt marched 65 yards for a touchdown in just eight plays, the first time they got their hands on the ball, must have taken the edge off the Duquesne players, many of whom had been waiting a long time for Saturday's game.

With the score 7 to 0, the Pitt team did something I never have seen it do before, and I have watched the Panthers on and off for the past seven years. The Pitt boys started throwing passes from deep in their own territory. On one occasion, the Pitt team was backed up to its 30-yard line with third down and 25 yards to go, whereupon Mr. Heller stepped back and threw a pass to Skladany, who finally was brought down from behind on the Dukes' 11-yard line. It took Pitt six plays to score its second touchdown from this point, the Dukes making a fine stand.

Later, in the second quarter, Pitt threw several flat passes from deep in its own territory, two of which were nearly intercepted.

DEFENSE FAULTY

The Dukes were better defensively than they were offensively, for, aside from several good passes, their running attack netted them little. On the defense, the boys from the Bluff used a seven-man line and a lopsided box, the standard Notre Dame defense. The defense was very effective a greater part of the game in stopping the Pitt running plays, but it was their insistence upon using this defense on all occasions that cost the Dukes at least two touchdowns.

They stayed in the box when Pitt had the ball on its own 30, with third and 25 yards to go, instead of going into a 6-2-2-1. Pitt threw and completed the pass mentioned above which just preceded its second touch down. Then, in the fourth quarter, with fourth down and 6, the Dukes still stayed in a box, and Nicksick took Matesic's pass over the goal for Pitt's fourth score.

INTERESTING BATTLE

On the whole, it was an interesting battle, interesting from the view point of the first meeting of the teams, their strategy, the hard fight on defense by the Dukes, and the ideal weather conditions which brought out a large crowd to grace the event.

Referee Praises Clean Play of Pitt, Dukes

The play in the Pitt-Duquesne football game Saturday at the Stadium was exceptionally clean, according to W. G. Crowell, of Swarthmore, who refereed the fray.

In discussing the game with W. Don Harrison, Pitt athletic director, Crowell, who has been officiating for 26 years, said:

"Usually in these games between local rivals there is a great deal of bad blood, ugly talk between rival players and a generally undesirable attitude.

"I was agreably surprised to find the two Pittsburgh elevens remained true sportsmen throughout their battle."

HAGEN VICTOR AT ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Walter Hagen, of Detroit, swept to victory in the St. Louis open golf tournament yesterday with a par-cracking finish in which he shot a 65 on the last 18 holes, six under perfect figures, to win over a field that included several national stars.

Hagen's card was 281 for the 72 holes of medal play, five better than his nearest opponents, MacDonald Smith and Toney Manero, of New York, who tied for second place with scores of 286 for the 72 holes.

Trailing in a tie for fourth place were Tommy Armour, of Detroit, who started as leader in the final, and Abe Espinosa, of Chicago, with scores of 287.

Smith and Manero had the championship well within their grasp until Hagen wound up with his par-shattering play for both the final rounds. He earlier had carded 69, two under par, for the 18-hole semi-final.

Bill Schwartz, of St. Louis, with a card of 288, finished sixth. Close behind him came Joe Kirkwood, of Chicago, and Ed Dudley, of Wilmington, Del., with scores of 290.

Tommy Armour, who paced the field as it went into the last day, destroyed his chances by going two strokes over par in the morning round and just equalling perfect figures in the afternoon, carding a 73 and a 71, while Hagen was knocking eight strokes off par.

SPORT VIGNETTES

One of the big kicks of the current football season was furnished during Geneva College's 33-0 victory over Thiel College at Beaver Falls the other night . . . In the third quarter, with a lot of the goobers, or goofers, as the reserve players are known, in the Geneva lineup, the Covenanters kicked from their own 40-yard line on last down with seven yards to go . . . An offside was called on them, and, although Thiel got all the better of the play, and should have declined the penalty and taken the ball where it was recovered, for some reason the Lutherans' captain insisted upon the penalty, which sent the ball back to five yards behind the starting point . . . Little Troiano, the Geneva back, was sore . . . On the way back, he gathered the Geneva players around him and said: "Just for that let's cross 'em up—let's pass!" . . . And that's just what they did—for a touchdown.

Coach Gus Dorais, of the Detroit eleven, which defeated Wash-Jeff, 7-0, at Detroit last Friday, hates a wet field . . . "All teams are bad in the mud," he says . . . "The only time I ever want to play on a wet field is when I think the other team is sure to win on a dry field." . . . You can't beat that for logic . . . Believe it or not, but Ossie Solem, the former Drake coach, is in a good spot at Iowa . . . The Hawkeyes scored only one touchdown and won only one game all of last season . . . Any change has to be for the better.

The tribal names of some of the members of the Haskell Indians' football squad this fall are Strikes Two, Knocks Off Two, Bullneck, Whirlwind Soldier, Charging Bull, Hits Enemy and Thunder Cloud, yet they bowed—73-0—to Notre Dame in their opening game . . . Carnegie Tech has won from Notre Dame only twice in nine games, but they knocked the Irish out of the national title in 1926, and in 1928 handed them their first defeat in 25 years at their old grounds, Cartier Field . . . And they've always been tough for the South Benders.

Pitt will be right for its game with Army at West Point Saturday, with Capt. Reider and Center Joe Tormey back in the lineup and jumping to go, along with Fullback John Luch back in his position to do the plunging . . . Carnegie Tech's gathering momentum in the second half against Western Reserve Saturday, after having been held scoreless in the first two quarters, may be taken as an indication of just what to expect from the Tartans as they go along this fall . . . They'll get better and better, and they'll have to be good for the tough games to come . . . Duquesne's Dukes now know the power that is Pitt and will be the better for their first clash with the city's big team last Saturday . . . As Coach Elmer Layden said afterward, the game was an excellent experience for his team.

Boxing fans are buzzing about the new Negro sensation, Unknown Winston, who has knocked out George Courtney, Walter Cobb and Billy Jones in recent starts in Boston . . . He must be good. —HARRY KECK.

LOOKOUTS SPLIT

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 10.—(A.P.)—The Chattanooga Lookouts, of the Southern Association, split a double-header against Mexico City baseball team yesterday. The visitors defeated the Gallos, 10-3, but dropped an 8-to-0 decision to the Aztecas.

SCHROTH, LUBBIG LEAD

Schroth, with three games won and none lost, is leading the pack in the red ball billiard tourney being conducted at the William Penn parlors. And Lubbig, with two victories and no defeats, holds the lead in the three-rail competition.

THREE IMPRESS IN BIG TEN

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Michigan, Wisconsin and Purdue threaten to provide the dynamite in the 1932 Western Conference gridiron championship race, as the result of the first title contests played Saturday.

Michigan's achievement in triumphing over Northwestern, 15 to 6, ending a two-year tie for shares in Conference honors, and Indiana's stubborn stand against Ohio State in holding the Buckeyes to a 7-7 tie, were the standout performances, with Wisconsin and Purdue lurking in the background. Michigan looms up as a genuine menace to the championship, although Purdue and Wisconsin must be given consideration.

Of the 10 teams in the Conference, only two, Chicago and Illinois, have not yet been put to a test of strength in Big Ten competition, and until they do, must be regarded as unknown factors. Illinois will get its first taste next Saturday in meeting Northwestern at Champaign, while Chicago must wait another week before colliding with Indiana in the first big test for Stagg's Maroons.

Three of the six teams that emerged victorious Saturday will be confronted by tough opponents next week-end. Michigan will battle its traditional foe, Ohio State, at Columbus, with Purdue meeting Wisconsin at Lafayette. Indiana will go into action against Iowa at Bloomington, while the other two teams, Chicago and Minnesota, will meet non-conference opponents. Chicago will take on Knox at Stagg Field, with Minnesota engaging Nebraska at Minneapolis.

AMERICAN TEAM WINS

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 10.—(A.P.)—Reggie McNamara, the veteran of the six-day bicycle racing game, and his partner, Al Crossley, of Boston, won the Toronto six-day grind at the Arena Gardens ending Saturday night. They were tied in distance with the French-German team of Henri Lepage and Bernard Stubecke, but won on points garnered in the last hour's sprints.

PANTHERS MOW DOWN ALL OPPOSITION

By JESS CARVER

The football elevens, that in pre-season analysis, figured to rank as the top-notch college machines of the tri-state area, are bearing up right well under the strain of actual competition, and today, with a month, almost, of the campaign erased, are stamping along at the head of the parade.

Pitt's Golden Panthers, with three decisive victories written into the records, over Ohio Northern, West Virginia and Duquesne, appears to be the strongest eleven of them all. In each of its triumphs, the score might have been larger had the Panthers so desired. So far, they have not been called upon to extend themselves.

Other elevens, while not all undefeated, have shown enough power and potential strength to warrant the expectation of better showings in the future.

W.-J. FORMIDABLE

Carnegie Tech, unbeaten, was unimpressive in beating both Geneva and Western Reserve. Geneva took Davis-Elkins, lost to Tech and came back Friday night of last week to rout Thiel. Wash-Jeff was taken over in a tough luck game by Detroit, but still figured to be plenty tough for Tech here this week. St. Vincent started off a week ago by holding rugged Canisius even, and then beat Mt. St. Mary's Saturday. Waynesburg looks like a real ball club, and Marshall must have something besides a set of uniforms to be able to tie Western Maryland.

The Pitt-Duquesne contest, while it lacked thrills and failed to attract as great a turnout as was very feverently hoped, went over big enough to warrant its being booked for a return engagement next fall. W. Don Harrison, Pitt's athletic director, has announced that the teams will clash again next fall, probably at a later date. The meeting, of course, must be sanctioned by the athletic councils of the two schools.

Pitt was unimpressive, primarily because it was not necessary for Dr. Sutherland's men to open up. They put on the old true and tried Warner-system power and rolled over the plucky but ineffective Dukes.

Outstanding it Pitt's triumph was the play of the two varsity tackles, Hoel and Cuba, who refused absolutely to yield an inch to the Duquesne attackers and the fullbacking of Izzy Weinstock. Weinstock has come along so fast since the season opened that he hardly looks like the same sophomore plunger who battled with Dutch Weisenbaugh at Camp Hamilton for the starting job. He has the position well in hand now, and figures to hold it. Fast as greased lightning, he hits hard and quickly and is alert on the defense, as well as deadly as a tackler.

SUTHERLAND SMART

Observers Saturday were quick to catch the significance of Dr. Sutherland's act of keeping his regulars in the action so long. He might have spared them without jeopardizing the Pitt cause, but I think the canny Scot figured the experience of working out against the Notre Dame system would be of great psychological value.

Tech was held at bay for the entire first half by Western Reserve, which appears to have emerged from the pushover class, but a spirited attack in the third and fourth periods stowed the victory away in the Tartan locker.

Tech will have trouble and plenty of it with its old rival, Wash-Jeff, this week. The Presidents outplayed Detroit Friday night, even though they lost, 7-0, and with the experience of having played two stronger elevens so far than the Plaid, will at least be even choices here this week.

Things moved along generally as was expected over the week-end. West Virginia put up a good fight against Temple Friday night, but dropped its third game in a row, 14-13, when Eck Allen miscued on the try for the extra point. Geneva took Thiel apart; Davis-Elkins won its second 7-to-6 victory in as many games, beating New River State's Golden B'ars.

Saturday, it remained for Waynesburg, Slippery Rock and Marshall to bring down the cheers. Waynesburg rallied in the dying moments of the game to beat Penn State for the second fall in a row. Victories over State warm the very cockles of Frank Wolf's heart, for Frank is a State graduate.

MARSHALL STRONG

Marshall battled long and hard to the Dick Harlow's Western Marylanders at Huntington, 13-13, and Slippery Rock caused noted Grove City alumni, such as Mose Lantz and Frank Cantoni, Virgil Patterlini and Freddy Pusch, to sleepy restlessly by holding the Grovers to a scoreless deadlock.

The tie so affected Lantz and Cantoni that they went out and took their spite out on the McKeesport Olympics yesterday

By JULIUS LEVIN

Six major upsets marked scholastic football games played in Western Pennsylvania over the past week-end, the most outstanding reversal of the dope bucket being Canonsburg's 7-6 victory over the Monessen Greyhounds, a AA Conference eleven, on Friday.

The Gunners, of Canonsburg, showing a tie game with Carmichaels, a Class B team, and a 20-6 defeat at the hands of Carnegie, were not expected to give Monessen much of a contest by the dopesters, but the Musser boys displayed enough class to squeeze out a one-point victory over Ditty's Grehounds.

HOMESTEAD LOSER

Another upset of major importance saw a scrappy Glassport High team, coached by Roy Hickes, outplay and outfight Homestead, a Class A eleven, on the latter team's home field to win a 13-0 decision, establishing it as one of the most powerful Class B aggregations in the district.

Rankin, boasting a 6-6 deadlock with Wilkinsburg, a double A eleven, saw its hopes for the Class B title shattered to smithereens at the hands of Edgewood, 18-0, while Westinghouse, beaten by Allegheny the previous Friday, turned right around and handed Peabody, a favorite in the Section I race, of the City League, a 12-6 drubbing.

Etna High School found a little Apollo team a stumbling block in its night battle at Etna, and bowed in defeat on Saturday, 6-0, its first setback of the season. Apollo is a Class B team, while Etna operates in Class A. Munhall, likewise a Class A aggregation, felt the wrath of a powerful Swissvale machine, 27-6, giving Ed Paulie's championship contender its third successive victory.

KEN HIGH WINS

New Kensington High, coached by Carl Glock, took undisputed possession of first place in the AA Conference by defeating Wilkinsburg, 13-6, its second Conference victory of the season.

The valley gridders will defend their honors Saturday at New Kensington when McKeesport, also undefeated in the Conference, is tackled.

School Notes

Roy Hickes, coach at Glassport High School, has developed one of the best Class B teams in the district this fall. The Glassport eleven not only has beaten the best teams in its class, but looms as a real threat to elevens playing under higher classification. Its victory over Homestead was no fluke, the Glassport machine outplaying the Campbell team from start to finish.

Walter Miller, basketball and football star at Homestead, looms as one of the best fullbacks in local scholastic circles. Weighing around 180 pounds, Miller has the knack of tearing through the best of lines for substantial gains. He appears to be the only consistent player on the Homestead squad.

One of the best tackles in W. P. I. A. L. circles this season is Eddie Gutowski, captain and brilliant punter of the Mt. Lebanon High eleven. Gutowski is called back from the line to do the Ambridge kicking. He has played a prominent part in the success attained by the Bridgers so far this season and looms as a strong candidate for all-W. I. A. L. consideration.

Bill Davidson, flashy quarterback of the Mt. Lebanon High eleven, looms as one of the outstanding field generals in Class A ranks this season. A fine punter, a great field general and an excellent broken field runner, who must be watched continually to keep him from breaking loose for large gains. Davidson stands out as the best triple-threat star since the days of Johnny Surdock at Miles Bryan High.

Johnny Spisak, a cousin of the Carnegie Tech star, is showing a lot of promise as halfback of the Miles Bryan High eleven. Spisak is a freshman at McKees Rocks, but has displayed a lot of class as a substitute. Coach McHenry predicts a bright future for the youngster. He weighs 150 pounds.

Two members of the Mt. Lebanon High squad are Grover C. Washabaugh, Jr., a son of the South High School coach, and Bud Munhall, a nephew of Bert Munhall, Carnegie Tech trainer.

Canisius Beaten By Georgetown

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Georgetown won its second game of the season yesterday, scoring a 14-to-6 victory here over Canisius College.

Canisius evened the score in the first quarter. Hovey, substitute back taking a pass for the touchdown but the visitors went ahead again shortly afterward when a pass went over Hovey's head into the end zone, being recovered for a safety. A placement attempt from the 25-yard line, which went off the line, ended Canisius' other march.

Fred J. Broad mushball team, winner of the New Kensington city and Allegheny valley championships for the season just closed. Broad, the sponsor, is the former heavyweight boxer, who met Frank Moran and other stars in his time and now is a business man in New Kensington. Only three games were lost in a schedule of 63. Pitcher Al Crummie won 45 games and Frank Sproul was undefeated in 12 battles. The brilliant record is one of the best ever compiled in these parts.

Fire, Spills Mar Woodbridge Race

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Joe Russo, of Indianapolis, flashed to victory yesterday in the 25-mile feature of an auto racing card that was marred by accidents.

Russo's winning time in the event was 25 minutes, 57 4-5 seconds. Bob Sall, of Paterson, was second.

In the forty-third lap of the race, the car of Johnny Hannon, of Conshohocken, Pa., burst into flames. Harris Insinger, of Philadelphia, who was following close behind, smashed into the blazing car, catapulting Hannon onto the track in the path of the other racers. Hannon rolled down the track, out of the way of the wheels of the other cars.

At the close of the feature race the car carrying Tee Lynn, of Media, Pa., crashed through the guard rail, but no one was hurt. In one of the preliminary five-mile events, Russo established a new track record of 4 minues, 42 seconds.

'Now It Can Be Told,' Or Warner's Cunning

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Stealing signals in baseball is considered to be as ethical as the larceny of a base, and, now that the modern game of collegiate football has stolen a page from Daddy Chadwick's book, that, too, appears to be O. K. In other words, "now it can be told."

The coming of Glenn Scobie (Pop) Warner next month with his Stanford University gridders for a game against Pitt here, is the reason why Sam Watters, Pirate tycoon, broke down and confessed yesterday relative to some fast stuff put over at Forbes Field by Foxy Pop, erstwhile Big Chief of the Carlisle Indians, long-time Panther mentor and present monarch of all he surveys at Stanford, in California.

Watters enacted an innocent part in the mysterious playlets produced by Warner as he lowered the banners of Wash-Jeff, Penn State and many another rival over a stretch of years here. And scarcely any of the rival coaches who sat stunned in the Pirate clubhouses were able to solve the puzzle of the annual Forbes Field routs. Now it can be told so Hugo Bezdek and his brethren may supress a chuckle as they realize how they were outrouted.

OLD POP RESOURCEFUL

Like the resourceful Hollywood director who built his "Little Annie Rooney" set around an otherwise unsightly gas tank to effect an atmosphere of New York's East Side, the alert Warner was quick to visualize the possibilities of the baseball scoreboard at the Oakland Orchard the first time he set foot in the Pirate home.

The large holes provided for the results of numbered innings on the big marking board were not unnoticed by Foxy Pop. He could see they were big enough to allow room for the heads of the boys who ran the board; in fact, the kids used the circular holes from which to witness the proceedings. Dr. Watson could not have preceded more logically.

The balconies and roof box sections of the Dreyfuss stadium are said to be ideal for grid sleuths who wish to study a rival for an impending game. But Pop had an idea that the observers could do their stuff in the midst of an important battle.

HA! THE TELEPHONE!

Watters was a bit startled when Pop advised him he would have to lay an underground, water-proof wire from a point near the Pitt bench to the upper stretches of the Forbes Field stands. But Sam recovered and the hidden wire was provided. Cleverly the wire was carried high into the stands and a telephone installed. Another 'phone was on the Pitt bench, and a highly secretive loop then was extended to the rear of the marking board. That 'phone was the real McCoy.

Nearly all big teams use the system which employs the scout in the stands, and the fact that this gent could talk with an aide on the bench was condoned, even if detected. But the scoreboard gave Foxy Pop a chance to talk with his quarterback, or the player who was calling the signals.

"How?" you ask. It was quite simple.

HOW PLAN WORKED

The battle gets under way. Pitt has the ball, but a certain sure-fire play is being stopped by some clever lineman or defensive back. The observer in the stands analyses the play easier than the quarterback on account of his better view. Ol' Pop is informed. He wants to use "37," but he has to impart his order to his quarterback. That's easy.

The 'phone behind the scoreboard jingles. In the next instant, the heads of two boys emerge from the holes below the "3" and the "7" on the innings board. The signal caller doesn't even have to make any official suspicious by looking at the bench. And the first thing you know the Panther is prowling again.

But one important afternoon the 'phone in the stands was installed in the roof section instead of in the balcony and the scout could not locate it. The Panther was being trampled and Pop was looking for a rope to use on the stage manager, Sam Watters.

Carey Wins Again On Detroit Track

DETROIT, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Bob Carey, of Anderson, Ind., won his second 20-mile race in as many weeks here yesterday, traversing 40 half-mile laps in 18.07.41. He led all the way. Gene Haustein, Detroit, was second, and Ira Hall, Detroit, fourth in the field of 10 starters.

Howard Dauthin, Detroit, was seriously injured when his car went over the embankment at a turn and he was pinned beneath the wreckage.

HELLER LEADS IN SCORING

Twice crashing over the goal line for touchdowns against the Dukes on Saturday, Warren Heller, Pitt's crack halfback star, boosted his touchdown total for the season to five, and a scoring total of 30 points, to take the lead over the Western Pennsylvania college field.

Izzy Weinstock, Pitt's fullback, moved up into second place with his two points after touchdown, and now boasts a mark of 19 points. Third place is shared by Deacle, of Wash-Jeff; Johnson, of St. Vincent, and George Kavel, of Tech, each with 18 points. In sixth place comes Art Grahame, of Geneva, with 16; Dick Matesic, of Pitt, is seventh, with 15; Shorty Troiana, of Geneva, eighth with 14, and Gross, of Grove City, ninth, with 13. There are seven tied for the tenth position, Weisenbaugh, Simms and Sebastian, of Pitt; McDonald and Pawlina, of the Dukes; Rollason, of Waynesburg, and Schemick, of Thiel, each having tallied two touchdowns.

BUSH BEST IN EAST

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Louis Bush, the Massachusetts State midget who was among last year's highest gridiron scorers, again is in the forefront of the scorers of the East. After last Saturday's games, Bush was first on the list with a total of 42 points, gained through seven touchdowns.

Cliff Montgomery, of Columbia, with six touchdowns and two extra points for a total of 38 points, was second, while Myers, of Bucknell, was third with 36 points.

Bender, of Baltimore, led in scoring points after touchdowns, with seven to his credit, plus four touchdowns for a total of 31 points. None of the leading scorers was credited with a field goal and no eastern player could be found who had booted more than one in the early season games.

Gail Lanker Wins In Sharon Race

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 10.—Gail Lanker, of Carey, O., led the field in the 50-mile automobile race at the local speedway yesterday, covering the distance in 48 minutes and 34 seconds. Wolf Baker, of Columbus, was second; Huff Schneider, of Trafford, third, and Bill Carr also of Carey, was fourth.

James Jarriusso and R. C. Hermes, Pittsburgh drivers were slightly injured in minor accidents.

PANTHERS TAKE SCORING LEAD IN EAST

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—A group of excitingly close games brought plenty of action but a minimum of upsets to Eastern football fans who watched the first big games of the year under warm early-October skies Saturday.

Only two teams, Syracuse and Penn State, were turned back by opponents of theoretically minor calibre, but some of the other little fellows put up stiff resistance and the games that were figured to be close fulfilled every promise.

Yale and Chicago, rivals in the leading intersectional battle of the day, played a 7-7 tie before 25,000 fans at New Haven; Columbia, checked on the ground, had to take the air route to defeat Princeton, 20 to 7; Dartmouth eked out a one touchdown victory over Lafayette, 6-0; Brown won from little Springfield, 13-6, and Rutgers gave its old rival, New York University, a real struggle before going down for the seventh successive time, 21 to 0.

FUMBLES COSTLY

On the other hand, Syracuse contributed materially to its 19-12 defeat at the hands of Ohio Wesleyan by fumbling badly. A 44-yard run by Currie in the last minute of play enabled Waynesburg to chalk up the other "upset," a 7-6 triumph over Penn State.

The service schools, Army and Navy, both showed improvement over last week. The Cadets walloped Carleton 57 to 0, while the Midshipmen came back from defeat to beat Washington and Lee 33 to 0.

The East got an even break in three other intersectional games as Cornell ran over Richmond, 27 to 0; Alabama returned the compliment with a 28-6 victory over George Washington, and Kenyon and Hobart played a 13-13 tie.

Fordham's powerful eleven downed Bucknell, 30 to 0, to end the Bisons string of eleven games without a defeat since 1930.

Pennsylvania ran up the second largest score by a major team swamping Swarthmore, 54 to 0. Pittsburgh trounced Duquesne, 33 to 0; Villanova beat Gettysburg, 31-0; Colgate defeated Niagara, 47-0; Harvard defeated New Hampshire, 40-0, and Holy Cross ran up a 32-6 count against Maine.

PITT TAKES LEAD

Colgate held second place today with 115 points with Columbia third with 112, Dartmouth fourth with 111 and Cornell and Harvard fifth with 106. These six alone of the more than 120 football-playing eastern colleges have passed the century mark.

PITT ELEVEN SHOWS CLASS

Edinboro's 7-0 triumph over Allegheny comes under the upset heading, too. It was a tough start for Waldo Tippin, the Gaitors' new coach. Westminster was two touchdowns better than California State Teachers and Indiana walloped Clarion, 19-0.

St. Vincent made an excursion into Maryland to record an impressive and decisive victory over Mt. St. Marys. Gene Edwards, titan-haired former Notre Dame quarterback, the Bearcat coach, is doing a good job with the Beatty, Pa., varsity.

The Tipoff

These football coaches can be fooled after all—even former Notre Dame stars who are out earning their bread and jam coaching. Look what happened to Slip Madigan, as his St. Mary's Gaels battled to a 12-12 deadlock with California Saturday. It was a pip, and Coach Slip deserves to have his name written on the brown derby of sport boners.

The Gaels obtained possession of the ball on their own 20-yard stripe in the first period and marched steadily down the field, finally pushing to the Bears' 36-yard line. Madigan, obviously excited at seeing his team rip off gain after gain through the Bears' line, sent in Fullback Dodson, just a play or two after he had taken him out. The result was a 25-yard penalty and messed up St. Mary's chance for a possible score.

The Murray Teachers' College eleven, of Kentucky, was held scoreless in the first two games on its schedule, but what it did to the University of Louisville Saturday was a shame. The Murrays joined the "Hundred Club," pounding the Louisville outfit for a 105-to-9 victory.

They do not call 'em the same in the sandlot ranks as they do in the college circuit. Either that or the officials at the Rooney-Olympic game yesterday at Greenlee Field missed one. The forward pass that scored the touchdown for the Olympics apparently struck an eligible player before bounding into the mitts of Ludwig for the score. The Rooneys kicked, and kicked like experts. But the officials, Earl Cavanaugh, Heinie Boll and Leo Mackey gave them the old chill.

Cavanaugh, who was the referee, had almost the identical play in the Penn State-Waynesburg game at State College on Saturday. On that occasion, a long pass, hit two eligible Waynesburg receivers before being intercepted by Lehr, State safety man. Cavanaugh, linesman on the game, called the play according to the rules, and was right. Here's the rule, in fact, for your benefit:

Rule 7, Section 5, Item 2—"Forward pass touching or being touched in the field of play by second (originally eligible) player of passer's team—Loss of a down, the ball to be put in play at spot of preceding down. This penalty may not be declined."

KANSAS COACH OUSTED

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 10.—(AP.)—H. W. (Bill) Hargiss was ousted as head football coach of the University of Kansas today and Adrian Lindsey, assistant coach and former chief mentor at Oklahoma, was given the active leadership of the Jayhawker football squad.

The shakeup was attributed to the poor showing last Saturday when Kansas lost to Oklahoma, 6 to 21, in its first Big Six Conference game of the season.

Hargiss will be retained as head track coach, succeeding Brutus K. Hamilton, who resigned last summer to coach at the University of California.

Athletic Director F. C. Allen will be responsible for the football activities in a supervisory capacity over Lindsey, as acting head coach, and Mike Getto, assistant varsity coach.

He was taken there Saturday night after the Purdue game for examination of a head injury. He was struck on the head during the game and was led from the field groggy. He probably will be kept out of practice for several days.

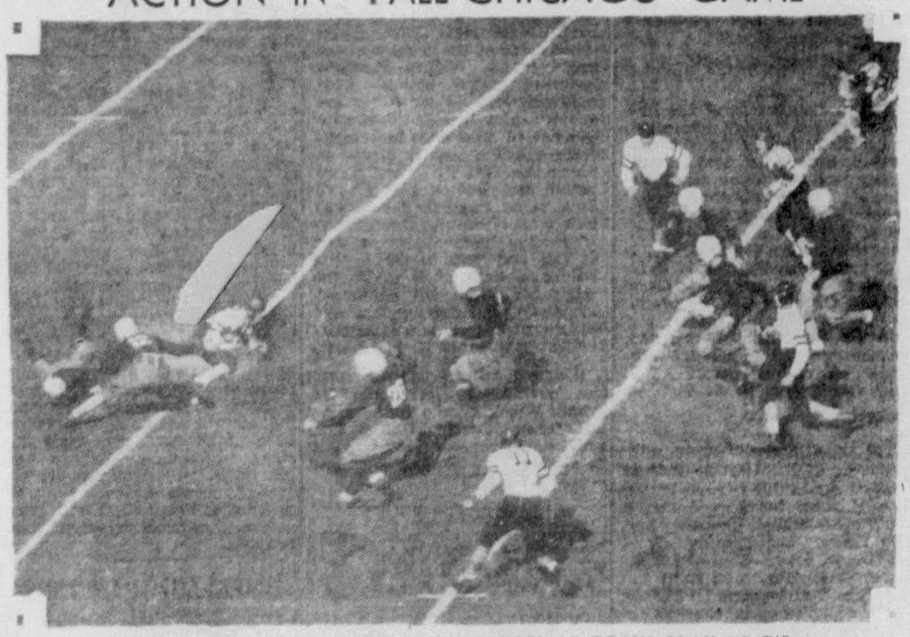
ACTION IN YALE-CHICAGO GAME



SAHLIN, OF CHICAGO, RUNS BACK KICKOFF AS TEAMS PLAY 7-7 TIE

STEEL REPORT STIFLES STOCK RALLY

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The stock market tried to rally in the early trading today, but bullish efforts were thwarted by a disappointing report of United States Steel's unfilled tonnage.

The list crept up a point or more here and there during the morning, but these gains were lost after the tonnage report appeared at midday, and declines of 1 to 3 points were numerous by early afternoon. The list was sluggish, however, and selling failing to develop important volume.

Failure of the wheat market to join in the early upturn in shares was disappointing, and contributed to the decline after the Steel figures were published. An increase of only 15,495 tons in the United States Steel's backlog in September was substantially less than had been generally anticipated, although late last week it was said in usually well-informed quarters that the gain would probably be well under 50,000 tons, in contrast to earlier talk of a gain of 100,000 tons or so.

The first of the large railroad system to report its carloadings for last week was Santa Fe, which handled 27,441 cars, against 26,078 in the previous week. Its last week's loadings were 18½ per cent under 1931, against a recession of about 19½ per cent in the preceding week. Other reports for last week were awaited with interest, for continuance of the recent improvement in the volume of freight well into October would be contrary to the usual seasonal trend, and would be construed favorably.

A better tone in the dollar in the foreign exchange market was widely described as encouraging. Brokers with foreign connections reported that the selling of American securities for foreign account seemed to be subsiding, and some houses actually had an excess of buying orders, although the business appeared to be small.

STATE'S COAL OUTPUT UP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP.)—Good news for Pennsylvania miners and operators was sprinkled generously through the Bureau of Mines coal report for the week ended October 1.

Anthracite production surpassed the mark for the corresponding week last year for the first time since early March, with 1,392,000 tons during the week as compared with 980,000 the week ended September 24. Only twice during the year has the weekly output gone ahead of that for the corresponding week last year.

Bituminous production also continued to climb out of its summer slump. Total output for the week was 6,790,000 tons as compared with 6,325,000 the week ended September 24. Pennsylvania shared in the gains for the week ended September 24. The state accounted for 1,530,000 tons as compared with 1,507,000 the previous week.

POOL ACTIVITY HELD CAUSE OF REACTION

By MERRYL S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—As business indices, with slight increases, began to confirm the summer upturn in security prices, the latter perversely reacted sharply.

There are numerous explanations of the contradiction, but one of the important ones is that pools, which are more or less disreputable agencies for merchandising securities, are in the business of market manipulation for their own profit. They seek to buy cheap, and then through focusing public attention on favorable developments to sell dear. Having achieved part, if not all of their objects, on recent market bulges, some of the market makers have switched their goal to rebuying cheap.

Mr. Rukeyser

Meantime, though the amplitude of the rise in stock prices, as expressed in percentages, was unusually great, the betterment in business, which is still very sick, has been quite restrained and somewhat spotty, perhaps the most that can be said on the side of optimism is that for the first time in four years the majority of business statistics are able to reflect normal seasonal fall improvements.

The most recent information from the barometric steel industry has been mildly encouraging. Moreover, there was a counter seasonal gain in residential building in September. The upward trend in freight car loadings and in power consumption continues. But in general, outside of textiles, the gains have been at a snail-like pace, the September output of automobiles was the lowest for any month since the war.

In spite of feeble rallies in business from the midsummer bottom, long term capital still seems determined to go only into government securities. The confidence for financing private construction still seems lacking. The big question mark centers around the continued inability of 10,000,000 unemployed, and 8,500,000 farmers, impoverished by prevailing low agricultural prices, to buy products. Moreover, the buying power of those still gainfully employed has been crippled by part time work and by reduced salary and wage rates. Until a formula has been found for putting the vast social groups in position for mutual trading, there is likely to be skepticism toward the nature of economic recuperation.

Europe's Demand for Gold Here Causing Less Uneasiness

More mature deliberation of the matter over the week-end appears to have lessened such unopined must fully realize the harmful effects which gold withdrawals would exert on newborn confidence and hope at this time. They know also, it is declared by easiness as might have prevailed last week over possibilities of a new European demand for gold. Important European central banks, it is some, that we have demonstrated we can and will pay every dollar of gold that can be demanded of us externally. It is therefore difficult for students of the situation to believe that foreign bankers will permit what is held now to be a "speculative movement" to assume important proportions.

"Forces working for lower prices have the better of the speculative argument with respect to fundamentals," says the trader in Barron's Weekly. "The political situation is entering the equation. Odds of over 2 to 1 have never been wrong in their forecast but a radical Congress is certain and its first task will be to balance the budget. New taxes that must be formulated by Congress carry a threat to capital not easily allayed until actual enactment of the levies. The extreme cheapness of capital the world over and record low rates for time money may well prove, however, a stabilizing influence upon the highest grade common stocks. Thus the process of disillusionment of speculators may be more gradual than during a period of banking panic and investment hysteria."

The presidential disclosure last week that the nation was within two weeks of abandonment of the gold standard has had the effect of reviving uneasiness. Many people, trusting in the official assurances while the crisis continued, were unaware of the proximity of the great threat to the gold standard. Informed people were not misled. Europe was startled apparently by the official disclosure, and its renewed nervousness explains th firming of foreign exchanges. The danger of abandonment now, however, has been greatly lessened by the emergency measures adopted at the last Congress. Unbiased observers have long anticipated a withdrawal of a goodly part of European funds drawn into the American speculative market.

While profit margins of the integrated oil companies narrowed during the third quarter from the exceptional month of June, net earnings for the period will present a close parallel with those in the second quarter. Entering the last quarter of the current year the industry found itself in a less favorable position than in several months preceding. Despite the current unsettlement oil companies, in general, will present far better reports for this year than for 1931.

The New Haven Railroad continued to show evidence of an improvement in trend of earnings during September. Estimates place gross earnings for September at approximately $5,980,000, which would represent a gain of about $324,000 over August. While September probably will show a deficit after charges, indications are that it may be considerably less than the $478,533 deficit in August, and if the current rate of improvement is maintained, the October showing should be materially better.

A month prior to the national election the market finds itself confronted with the actuality of business having improved for several weeks over the fearful summer levels, yet speculative sentiment has again shifted to gloom. In its disappointment, the bull speculative element seeks excuses in bear raids, but the evidence is right before their eyes: their own exaggeration of a modest seasonal trade improvement blinded themselves to its limitations. Now the stock market is dependent for revival upon upbuilding of a new faith which will induce investment buying upon investment basis. It needs more than anything else at the moment a substantial short account, first, to provide the only available kind of "forced buying, and, secondly, to provide possible rallying inducement.

ROONEY TEAM SCORES CLOSE TRIUMPH

By TOM BIRKS

The defending champions, the J. P. Rooneys, have come through their first three tests of the 1932 campaign in the West Penn Independent Football Conference with flying colors, but they never were closer to defeat or had such a narrow escape as they did yesterday.

Playing at Greenlee Field, the Rooneys nosed out the McKeesport Olympics, 7 to 6, and at Bellaire, the East Liberty Papales upset the Bellaires Eagles, 6 to 3.

The Greenlee Field battle was probably the hardest fought game ever staged in the Conference, McKeesport was primed for victory, and Bill Sullivan's men came close to turning the trick.

GAME EXCITING

All of the excitement was crammed into the second half of the game. The first quarter found the Olympics within scoring distance twice, but the powerful Rooney line braced, and held the invaders at bay.

Newlin's passes to Mortak and Ludwig worried the Big Green secondary defense, and finally in the third quarter, from the Rooney 22-yard line, Newlin hurled the ball into Ludwig's arms and the first touchdown of the season was chalked up against the champions. The extra point kick went wide. The score aroused the Rooneys and they went to work. With the line opening holes in the Olympic defense, the ball toters gained yardage, but the Olympic line stiffened, and a pass sailed over the goal line and the McKeesporters took the ball.

On the second play, Newlin tried a pass. The ball was partly batted down, and fell into the waiting arms of Jimmy Rooney. Then the Big Green machine opened a drive that ended with Jimmy Clark going over for the touchdown.

ROONEY'S KICK WINS

Some questionable judgment by Capt. Jimmy nearly cost the Rooneys the game in its dying moments. With a one-point lead, and possession of the ball, Rooney threw a pass on first down that Newlin intercepted and brought back deep into Rooney territory. The ball was worked to the 15-yard line, where a field goal try was indicated, but Newlin elected to attempt to run the ball and lost it on downs.

Newlin, Sapp, Ludwig and Minnick were great for the Olympics. Lantz, Clark, Quatse, Harp Vaughan, Boom, Cantoni and Mose Kelsh stood out for the Rooneys.

Boots Klinzing carried the ball over the Bellaire goal line, taking a pass from Tony Sweet to win for East Liberty. Charley Tully booted a field goal in the initial period for Bellaire. The lineup:

MORGAN SOCCER TEAM BOWS

The Valley Camp eleven pulled the big surprise in district soccer yesterday, defeating the famous Morgan team in a Keystone League contest at Van Vooris, 2 to 0. In other Keystone tussles, Curry nosed out Bridgeville, 1 to 0, and the Zonies blanked Cecil, 4 to 0.

Some hard fought battles were staged in the Washington County League. Donahoe's and Langeloth were engaged in 90 minutes of rough football as Langeloth went down to a 1-to-0 defeat. Cedar Grove easily defeated Penawa, 4 to 0, and Lincoln Hill scored six goals to beat Atlasburg.

In the Allegheny Valley League, Springdale defeated Curtisville, 3-0, and the Valley Athletics stopped Kinlock by a 3-to-1 score. The third game, between Millvale and Tarentum, was postponed.

Games in the Panhandle League were unusually close. The McKnights, with a powerful team, scored four goals over Sygan, but the other games found most teams winning by the odd goal.

In non-league tussles, the Webers defeated the Veronas, 3 to 1, and the Duquesne Republicans nosed out McKeesport, 1 to 0, in a game played before a fine turnout at Duquesne.

The Horning Rovers play the Dicke team under the flood lights at South Park tonight. The Munhall High School team plays a team of local soccer referees, including former star players, on the same field Wednesday night.

In Memoriam 1-B

FRAZER, ALEX W.—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, who passed away one year ago today:
The moon and stars are shining upon a lonely grave,
Where sleeps our husband and father
We loved but could not save.
We often sit and think of you
And speak of how you died;
To think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best;
May God grant you eternal rest.
From his loving wife and children.

In loving memory of Marie Weber O'Malley.
No one knows the silent heartache;
Only those hard lost can tell
Oft the grief that's borne in silence
For the one we love so well.
Sadly missed by her father and mother, Elsie and Jean.

VALENTINE

Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XLIII.

It had been a miserable evening. Val had tried, but she couldn't feel comfortable with those boys, who got on so beautifully with Millie.

What could Millie see in that silly, wise-cracking Bob Forrester? Why, he was JUVENILE! There wasn't a thing to get excited about except that he was handsome in a pretty sort of way, and of course he could dance gorgeously, but what of it?

And the Russian friend might be a prince in disguise, but it was a heavy disguise. The way he fell on his food!

"Are you in pictures?" he asked Val, and when she said no, he went right back to his beefsteak, and didn't address another word to her all evening.

And Millie . . . well, Millie made her think of Marjorie and Frank, and how she used to come along with them, and be a total loss while they tittered and joked and forgot her. When that Bob Forrester was in sight Millie really didn't see anything but him. She even danced with her cheek close against his, and she looked . . . Val's face flushed with embarrassment, as she remembered . . . looked sort of common.

Millie, who had always been so lovely, so beautifully aloof from everything that wasn't as lovely as she.

MILLIE PRAISES FRIEND

Millie was much too fat again, too. It was a shame. And the gown she wore was too tight, and the rhinestone heels on her pumps were too much. In fact, they shouldn't have worn evening things at all, the men weren't dressed, and most of the other women were in sport clothes.

Millie waked, said sleepily, sweetly, "Are you resting well, dear?"

Val closed her eyes, felt guilty. Millie was so sweet. If only she wouldn't . . . wouldn't act that way.

Before they were dressed in the morning Millie started right in all over again.

"Bob's absolutely wonderful, isn't he? Val! Isn't he? And the best of it is that he's free, entirely cut off from his family, too. That's a break for me.

"He may seem young, but he's old in experience. Ran away and went to sea when he was—well, hardly more than a child, and then after the most thrilling adventures—you must get him to tell you about them—he went back to school and studied so hard—he was studying law—that he had a perfectly terrible breakdown and this time his family were only too glad to send him away. So he went to Colorado and became a cowpuncher at a dude ranch. But of course that didn't lead anywhere and he has this marvelous talent—"

AN EARLY VISITOR

"He has what, Millie?"

"This marvelous talent—for acting!"

"Oh!"

"He has had several important parts in pictures. He went to Germany to look over the situation there. In fact, one of the big producers sent for him to take a lead in an awfully important picture, but he decided against it. He was on his way home when I met him on the boat. The funny part was that he was traveling third, but everybody was so crazy about him that he had practically the run of the ship, and . . . Val, AREN'T you interested?"

Val turned scarlet. "OF COURSE! I just—"

"You just what?"

"Something you said made me think of something—someone I—I used to love."

"Don't tell me that you ever loved anybody, you little icicle!"

"Millie, I'm not cold! I—"

The doornob rattled.

Millie's hands flew to her hair. "You let him in," she mouthed, and, tiptoed rapidly toward the dressing room.

Val opened the door. Bob Forrester, of course. Just as exhuberant, just as brassy, as he was the night before.

"Better not. I'll come in there and pull you out!"

Millie laughed.

Bob laughed.

"Millie says you are an actor," Val said hastily, trying to cover her confusion.

"I'm in pictures, yes," Bob said. Val thought that was the end of that, but Bob went right on:

"Try as one does, one comes back to the profession. The younger men turn to pictures as the coming medium of expression. A new technique is being developed, and a man of real talent—"

VAL IRRITATED

He went on and on. Millie was ages getting ready. Val sighed with relief when she finally appeared, but it didn't do any good, for Millie insisted upon her going with them to lunch.

That certainly ought to keep down the expenses, Val thought, noting Bob's generous ordering, and feeling guilty that he should have to feed her, too.

"It isn't right for him to be stuck with me, too," she told Millie afterward.

"Oh, that's all right," Millie said carelessly, "I'm Bob's banker right now. I mean I'm paying for all of us. He's between engagements. Now don't start worrying, or you'll make me nervous and I want to have some fun in life, even if you don't!"

Synopsis

Valentine Macfarlane is practically deserted at the age of 8 by her gay, widowed mother, Millie. She is brought up by a manhating maiden aunt, Julia, and becomes a stenographer. After a brief infatuation for the dashing Lester Sherwood, she marries a neighbor boy, Joe Carey, and goes to Minneapolis, where Joe is an architect. Pearl Neely, one of Joe's friends, visits and begins to take liberties about the apartment. Val dislikes Pearl, but says nothing. Unused to housework, Val becomes discontented. Joe tells Val his plans for the future, but she is unimpressed. Millie's husband dies. Val travels alone to California, where she plans to see Lester. She visits Millie. Val is amazed at the youthfulness of her mother's gentlemen friends.

Now Go On

Isn't It So?

Airplanes will seem just as safe as automobiles when people get used to dying that way.

She was on her way back—to Lester.

Bob. Bob! Bob for lunch, and Bob for dinner. Bob for everything but breakfast, and breakfast wasn't much fun because Millie said it was the one meal she never had any interest in cooking, and then he complained if the coffee was weak, or the toast was the least bit burnt.

"Good heavens, child, didn't Julia Macfarlane teach you ANYTHING?" she cried in exasperation.

And Val barely swallowed the angry retort. "Yes! She taught me to be NEAT!"

For Millie wasn't neat. She left wet bathtowels in the tub, hair on her brush, spilled powder all over the dresser, clothes on every chair in the place. Then fixed a few flowers in a bowl, or made some little sandwiches out of avacadoes and ketchup and stuff, and thought she was a wonderful housekeeper.

"But I wouldn't mind, if I weren't so nervous," Val thought, trying to repress her irritation, wishing that she could go on to Marjorie, and see Lester. Even if he wouldn't look at her, it would be a relief to know it. To know the worst, and have it over . .

"Fidgety people drive me nearly mad!" she heard Millie telling Bob that night, and the next morning, when Marjorie's invitation to come to Hollywood arrived at last, Millie said it was all right to go right along, and she understood perfectly.

If Val hadn't been so anxious to get away she'd have worried. Millie seemed so relieved to have her go. But it was so good to be on her way that she settled back in the cab, looked at her correct luggage, her neatly gloved hands, her well shod feet with approval. She was wearing the black wool dress Millie had brought her from Paris, and knew she was looking her best. In spite of everything, her spirits soared.

She closed her eyes, "Lester," she said in her heart, "I'm coming back—to you!"

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Edith Fairfax Arrives Early for Dinner Dance

"We haven't breath to think," Lillian said promptly, as Harry and Dicky asked us what we thought of the lighting effects they had provided for the party.

"It is the loveliest thing I've ever seen," I said.

"Pretty nifty, what?" Dicky admitted. "But old Harry bears off the plums in the pudding. He did that lighting stunt."

"It's only the usual night club stunt," Mr. Underwood said diffidently.

"I never saw anything so exquisite," I repeated, "and I'm glad to find out what has been the matter with Katie. She's gone around with such an air of mystery that I have been afraid she would burst."

"How about her dinner? "Dicky asked with the first hint of captiousness I had heard in his voice since he and Harry began preparations for the party. "Will she have it on time, or will she begin to serve about midnight?"

I smiled triumphantly at him, for luckily I was able to refute his implied criticism of my little maid.

"Progressing wonderfully," I said. "I've been able to provide help enough for her, so that she has been able to get everything in good shape. And I've been able to get hold of four clever young colored boys to wait upon the tables."

"Some class to our party, eh, folks?" Dicky said teasingly. "We're going to have an orchestra, too, don't forget."

EDITH ARRIVES

"Poor old pocketbook feeling the strain?" Dicky asked teasingly. "Well! we'll try to restore it to its pristine plumpness when this cruel war is over, Madgie, dear. But, hist! I hear the sound of chariot wheels, otherwise motor rumbles. Do you suppose some of your guests have arrived?"

"Switch off the lights, pronto!" Lillian said, and let's get out of here and lock the doors. "There isn't a single thing more to be done, and we don't want anybody to see it until time for the festivities to begin. You have the library and veranda and foyer for reception rooms, and don't need to take anybody into this lovely place until time for dinner to be served."

"That's the plan," I said, running up two or three shades so that air might be admitted to the room and keep the roses from drooping in the low bowls upon the tables. Soon we were in the hall with the doors locked behind us, and a few steps more took us to the side veranda.

"Ede, I knew it!" Lillian said in a disgusted way aside to me. "That woman has the mind of a gossiping member of the old-style sewing circle. She can't rest unless she has a finger in every pie. She's landed out here ahead of time, hoping she can find something to find fault with or to exercise what she calls her efficiency on. I hope you pipe the prepositions I'm ending my sentences with. That's just the way I feel."

GREETS DR. PAIGE

"Hush. She'll hear you," I said, divided between annoyance at Edith's untimely arrival and mirth at Lillian's diatribe.

"I hope she does," she answered rebelliously, "but don't worry. I already am wreathing my lips in smiles allee samee my hostess. Come on down and let's get the glad hand over."

I went with her down the steps to the side of the car. Dicky and Harry were ahead of us, but I noticed that Edith contrived to let her "cousin" help her out of the car. I greeted her cordially, and then turned to the big, kindly man who had been so good to us on our Southern sojourn in Junior's early childhood.

"It is so good to see you again Dr. Paige," I said, and I meant it.

"It's pretty nice to see you," he replied with his fascinating Southern drawl, and smiling down at me from his six feet of height. "I was afraid I'd be imposing on you, coming in like this on a party when you didn't expect me, but Edie said you wouldn't mind."

"She was perfectly right," I said smiling, but had hard work to keep the smile on my face when Edith struck in peremptorily.

"Where are all those wonderful decorations the Dicky-bird and I were planning? I came out early on purpose to look them over."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

The Cameraphone Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club enrolled a new member last week that threatens to run away with the hearts of each and every member of this chapter.

His name is "Gus," and he's a little white and black rat terrier. "Gus" receives more attention at the Saturday morning meetings than the ice cream cones which Manager Earl Roeser gives to the members nearly every week.

Where did "Gus" come from? Nobody seems to know, but you can bet your last dollar that as long as the members of the Sun-Telegraph - Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club meet at the Cameraphone Theater that's where he'll be.

Where does "Gus" live? Manager Roeser has fixed a little place for him back of the stage and "Gus" is master of all he surveys.

TAUGHT TRICKS

Where does "Gus" go to school? Every Saturday morning before the regular meeting is called to order the members are back stage teaching "Gus" all the tricks of dogdom. Earl Roeser reports that many afternoons after school some of the members drop in with a "swell" bone for "Gus" and also give him instructions in "sitting up," "playing dead dog" and "shaking hands" when told. If the members of this chapter have their way and "Gus" stays in his new home, they'll make him the smartest dog in East Liberty.

The meeting of the Cameraphone Chapter opened Saturday with all present singing "America." After the singing Manager Roeser presented every one with a ticket good for one bottle of coca-cola. This presentation brought cheers from the audience. Following the distribution of these tickets the regular stage show was presented by pupils from Vera Liebau's and Florence Dunn's schools of Dancing.

CONTESTS HELD

Following the stage show the first of many contests took place. This was the balloon contest in which eight of the members competed. The eight were called to the stage and each given a large purple balloon. Paul Regan got off to a slow start when the signal was given, but by much blowing it wasn't long before he not only caught up to the other seven, but had passed them and continued to blow until he blew himself right into first place. For this he was awarded two tickets for the Cameraphone Theater.

Then the members decided that they wanted to sing and with Mercedes Brinker acting as mistress of ceremonies and leading the members they all sang "A Shanty In Old Shanty Town," "River Stay Rway From My Door," "Moonlight and Roses" and "Now's the Time to Fall in Love."

After several other contests Manager Roeser introduced to the members Capt. William Campbell, famous autogiro airplane pilot, who told the youngsters all about these new type airplanes. Capt. Campbell invited all of the youngsters to visit the air field, when he said he would explain the working principles to them in more detail.

IT'S TERRIBLE! JUST ONE THING AFTER ANOTHER!

Consider the minnow, he lasts but a day,
The anchovy's happy, swims for a minute,
Along comes a mackerel, and then he is in it;
The mackerel will later, or probably sooner,

Is dogfish eat catfish then dodge barracuda.
The law of the land seems based on a notion

High and Unscientific Taxes Hurt Employers And Increase Idleness

The American people today are paying a heavy price for the tardiness of public officials in initiating governmental operating economies. They are paying heavily for the unsound and demagogic taxation program of the "soak the rich" bloc in Congress.

In reality, the cost of government necessarily falls on the self-supporting citizens, most of whom under present conditions can hardly be described as rich.

The wisely conceived and useful manufacturers' sales tax was beaten in Congress by the SPECIOUS argument that it would add to the burdens of the poor.

Under the present setup, the invisible dole in the form of tax exemption is of no tangible worth to the 11,000,000 unemployed persons, who are without buying power.

The plan to "soak the rich" through adding to the burdensome taxes on corporations and individuals has, in practice, had the effect of increasing the troubles of the poor.

"Between 1929 and 1932 the ratio of the average man's tax to his income has about doubled.

"Our company, along with the rest of industry, finds its property tax obligations out of all proportion to wages and other costs of conducting its business.

"Our company's tax bill today if available for wages would increase the present employment of 50,000 of our employes by nearly 20 per cent for a year."

By sapping the financial strength of employers, excessive taxation is definitely adding to the army of the unemployed.

The time has come for public officials to remedy the unbalanced situation in local, state and federal expenditures.

The way out consists in further elimination of economic waste in governmental outlays for operating expenses, on the one hand, and in the substitution of scientific taxes for hodge podge taxes, on the other.

Desirable fiscal reform would entail greater emphasis on comparatively painless taxes, such as a general manufacturers' sales tax and an excise tax on light wines and beer, which should forthwith be legalized.

The inroads of the depression have gone too far to permit further frivolous and costly procrastination.

A Costly Delay

There Will Be No Excuse for Further Failure to Abolish The Tag-Fixing Evil.

After a long and vigorous crusade Council finally was persuaded to pass, on March 28 last, the codified traffic ordinance. This was the measure that was to abolish the tag-fixing evil. Under its provisions it would not be easy for persons summoned to Traffic Court to escape answering the charges.

Mayor Charles H. Kline signed the bill on April 7. But although more than six months have elapsed, that part of the measure that applies to tag-fixing has not yet been put into effect. Tag-fixing is said to be going on just the same as ever.

It has been estimated that tags are fixed at the rate of 200,000 a year. If the beneficiaries of the system were to be made to answer in Traffic Court and were to be fined, on the average, $1 each, the city would be the gainer to the extent of $200,000 a year. On this basis the six months' delay in abolishing tag-fixing has cost the city $100,000.

Various excuses are given for not putting the new system into effect. To postpone it further will be inexcusable.

Public Officials Who Hold Several Jobs Can Help to Relieve Unemployment.

With the approval of the American Federation of Labor, the Federal Reserve banking and industrial committees have launched what is known as "the Share-the-Work Movement."

The purpose is to decrease unemployment by spreading the work now available among a larger group of employes. It is to be done by shortening the work period. In this way it is hoped to give as many people as possible a sense of security, and purchasing power at least sufficient to enable them to obtain the necessities of life.

There are many persons whose incomes are so low that it would be unfair to ask them to share their work.

There are many others who could reasonably be asked to share their work even if times were normal. We have in mind the public officials who greedily hold several jobs.

The Sun-Telegraph has published a partial list of these job gluttons. They are to be found on the city, county and state payrolls.

Good Detective Work

Under the leadership of Frank K. Morgan, city detectives have succeeded in arresting 10 persons as members or accomplices of a gang of bandits who are charged with five holdups and the shooting of Constable C. F. Hildebrand, of Reserve Township.

After prolonged questioning in the District Attorney's office six of the suspects are reported to have confessed participation in the crimes. Two are said to be ex-convicts.

These are important arrests, and the detectives are entitled to a great deal of credit, especially since they caught the accused, not through blind luck, but through hard work and the exercise of detective skill.

And disregard the good boy's taunts
That urge him back to shore.

Women Are Not Suspicious

Woman has been called "the weaker vessel, filled with suspicion."

* * *

But that, like most popular theories, is all wrong! Women are not really more suspicious than men. They only SEEM so, because men are such poor deceivers.

* * *

Men may have been "deceivers ever;" but, with all their practice, they are still right in the class with the fatuous ostrich. If any woman is deceived by a man, it is because she has succeeded in deceiving HERSELF. Lots of married women go all through life with their eyes shut tight, hoping passionately that the man won't do anything to UNdeceive them.

But, the average man hasn't PATIENCE to go on fooling a woman even when she wants to be fooled. Once he has set his heart or his mind or his eye on another woman, he simply can't be civil to the woman who is in the way.

* * *

When a man has tired of a woman, just the sight of her, just the knowledge of her presence gets on his nerves. Just the sound of her footstep irritates him and arouses his resentment.

* * *

And that's where woman's "suspicion" comes in. Many a woman might never dream or suspect that her husband had looked at another woman, if he would only go right on being pleasant around the house. She might cheerfully swallow all his alibis and sympathize with him for having to work late at the office, so many evenings, if he would come home bringing flowers, instead of the grouch-that-knows-no-brother.

But any woman can tell, just by the disapproving and critical way in which he looks at her, by the way he snaps at her or corrrects her, or frowns at her or jeers at her, that a man is thinking of another woman. She doesn't have to SEE the other woman. She knows that a man MUST love someone; and she knows that it's no longer herself. Poor ostrich! He is the chief witness against himself.

* * *

A woman is much cleverer—and more patient. When she is fooling a man, she soothes her conscience and at the same time serves her purpose by being particularly nice and sweet to him. She becomes suddenly tender and thoughtful and loving. And, of course, as long as a woman is nice to a man, it never occurs to him that she could possibly find anybody else more attractive than HE is.

EUROPE DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

VENICE, Oct. 10.—After years of thumb-twiddling at the gushing of others, I promised myself to be unusual, perhaps arrogant, about Venice. So floating along the Grand Canal the first time in a frail cockleshell, I sniffed: "It seems to me there is a slight whiff in the old Gowanus!" The dirty looks!

Our train to Venice stopped at Chioggia, chiefly because there was nothing else for it to do unless it became amphibious. From then on, one takes up gondolaing in a big way. And, after loitering for a leisurely 10 miles, there sparkled Venice—"the poetical bride of the Adriatic."

My effort at repression is something of a wrench. No other city, with the possible exception of Bangkok, I am told, is like it. One bids adieu to many mechanical megrims. Life suddenly skims into an ecstatic glide. Ridiculously, it struck me: What a place to chase butterflies!

First, and doubtless, my most lasting impression, arriving shortly after dawn, was the tender hush. It seemed when I stepped from the gondola to the stone stairs of the hotel—Danieli's—and asked the skipper "How much?" I was shouting at top voice, so eerily still was everything.

As a matter of simple chronicle, I was shrieking before coming to terms with the bandit. But, I confess, it was due largely to lingual ignorance. Every time he mentioned the word lira, I somehow got the notion he was casting aspersions on my unimpeachable veracity. Fancy!

Danieli's, once a famous place, was a tryst for the mad love affair between George Sand and Alfred de Musset. Our barn-like room has the depression of decadence. Anyway, I'm a hall room boy. But a waiter, answering a summons, somehow touched off a homelike glow. He spoke unaccented English. "You have been to America?" I suggested. Not only had he been there; he was born there, once ushering in the balcony at Hammerstein's and loafing in the East Side poolroom where Dago Frank, of the Rosenthal murder, held forth.

* * *

I've been in Venice only long enough to do a little unpacking, gaze in the customary subdued awe from a bedroom window, secretly thumb my bank roll, and so unlimbering my typewriter go to work. And, right away, I must correct that tosh about the absence of mechanical noises. Right in the midst of this a staccato put-putt. A glance out the window revealed a huge motorboat racing along hell-for-leather. I added the bang of my illusion to the buzfuz.

* * *

I suppose, instead of being lulled to sleep by a gondolier trolling a Venetian chorus, the soft swish of lazy waters or the muted plunk-plunk of a mandolin, local Kay Dons will be motor racing all night. Or Venetian Tom Mixes will be "moonlightin' bronks" on the cobbled side streets.

* * *

It occurred to me, before writing more, I should obey a vague demiurge and stroll about a bit. So I drifted down the boulevard-like hall to Harry Silvey's room. Instead of being drugged in happy reveries by beauty surrounding him on every hand, he was fiercely brushing his clothes. He has worn two of those extra long whiskbrooms to dimensions of Joe Weber's chin whiskers on this trip.

* * *

The late sun was a bonfire of red, sheeting the skies pink and making Venice a glowing tiara of majestic towers. Sweeps of canal mirror the mellow grandeur of kings, now mere smudges in royal crypts. Thus, prowling becomes a phantasy—a sort of sleepwalk. It gets you. Often I've smart-alecked up New York's theatrical district by calling it the Rialto without knowing much what I was talking about. So we stood on the famed Rialto, in reality a district with the bridge a center. About are decaying congeries of offices, fish markets, vegetable stalls. Most impressive to me of all was the stately iron lamp at one corner. Standing beside it, with shadowy arches below and loggia above, would be a dandy place for what's her name to sing that apache threnody, "My Man!"

* * *

Homeward in the twilight green, we tarried at a cafe's outside table in a surprisingly narrow and slightly gamey byway. A beaming proprietor graciously inquired: "You like a leedle music, yes?" We nodded and he rushed away, we thought, perhaps to return with a red-sashed, dreamy-voiced Venetian Vallee. Instead he turned on a gramaphone. "So this," sighed my wife, "is Venice!" I nodded agreeably. After all, I didn't build it.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You wish you had more luck.

What do you mean by luck?

You don't know exactly. It's a mystery. But it's something that happens to some people and does not happen to others. Something that gives some people the breaks without any effort on their part.

Things like that happen to lucky people. They never happen to you. You wish they did. But of course there's nothing you can do about it.

Are you sure of that? Are you quite sure that luck is something outside yourself over which you have no control?

Most people do think about luck in that way, but others have discovered an amazing secret. They have discovered that luck isn't an "outside something," but that it is an adjustment within the man himself—that a man can make his own luck.

"I often yield to the impulse to use as a springboard any lath which chance has thrown under my feet. Of course, he who would take such ventures must be able to jump, and 'ability to jump' is in essence what most people term 'having luck.' There is no such thing as 'having luck.' What is called luck is intimately associated with adroitness, just as ill-luck is intimately associated with maladroitness."

Luck is not the thing that happens to you from outside. LUCK IS THE WAY YOU TAKE THAT THING INSIDE.

Luck is the "ability to jump;" the ability to use any incident or impulse as a springboard to a wider opportunity.

But luck does not come with one jump. Luck comes only after a man has jumped many times; has accumulated the courage to take jumps in the face of possible disaster and ridicule.

For jumps do not always end luckily. Many an impulsive adventure leads nowhere. Often the jumper is misjudged by the more cautious folk who watch his antics with a scornful eye, calling him eccentric, or even worse.

BUT SLOWLY AND SURELY THAT MAN IS MAKING HIS LUCK.

Some day his chance will come. Some trivial opportunity will present itself. It may not seem any more important than a thousand opportunities which have gone before. But because that man has acquired the ability to use any opportunity as a springboard, he will take a chance, and then the courage and initiative and agility which he has built up during a thousand failures, will sweep him on to success.

The man who discovers a gold mine, for instance. The woman who gets a chance to go on a trip around the world. These things did not come through "fool's luck." They came because those people had prepared themselves for their coming. They had taken chances. They had broken down inhibitions within themselves. They had cultivated their imaginations. They had the "ability to jump." So when the gold glinted under foot or the ship waited on the beach, they were ready.

You want luck?

How ready are you for luck?

Would you know it if you saw it? Could you take it if it came?

Text For Today Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him: fret not thyself because of him who prospereth in his way, because of the man who bringeth wicked devices to pass.—Psalms, xxxvii:7.

Garner and Mills: People vs. Plutocracy

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

With the death of John Sharp Williams, one of the most brilliant and colorful individualists passed to history. He had no superior, if an equal, in debate in House or Senate; and no member of the Senate in his time was more soundly educated or better informed.

He belonged to the old school of Southern statesmanship and was fundamentally sound in his political principles and governmental concept. But in time he tired of public life with its insincerities, and stubbornly refusing to take another term in the Senate, he went back to the ancestral plantation in Mississippi where he could enjoy the twilight of his days as he liked best.

There was his library, one of the best in the South, with the classics to which he was partial; there on the big verandah he could sit on warm afternoons with a Greek classic in the original in his hand and the mint julep on the table, and there in the evening he could amuse himself by having the Negroes sing the old plantation songs. He was a real statesman, but more philosopher than politician, and he will live in tradition for generations in Mississippi.

Garner to Trail Mills

When Ogden Mills, who, more than any other with the exception of Andrew Mellon, personifies the financial oligarchs who have ruled and ruined the country, starts westward to convince "the sons of the wild jackass," as his friend Moses calls the farmers, it will not take the Westerners long to take his measure.

To find a greater blunder in an appeal to the West one must go back to 1916 when the ladies' "billionaire special," sparkling with jewels and shedding condescension, was sent to the coast to give the wild Westerners a treat.

Nothing could have been happier than the decision that he shall be trailed by John N. Garner. Mr. Mills will seem an exotic, all flower and perfume; Garner is racy of the Western soil. Mills will seem a stranger, and Garner an old friend who has fought the battle for the farmers and the underdog for a full generation. Mills will smell of the counting room, and Garner of the grain fields. One will be the voice of Wall street and the other of Main street. One will speak, as he has always spoken, for Plutocracy; the other for the People.

* * *

Mr. Mills Puts Up A Good Front

No one in America is better equipped, if any one is so well equipped, to meet Mr. Mills' condescension, his sophistries, his misrepresentations as Garner. The latter has been intimately identified with governmental activities for 30 years and knows the governmental machinery in all its parts. For years he has been of the committee that has dealt with the budget and the finances of the nation.

No one knows better just what has happened in Washington during the last four years of human misery—or why. No one is better acquainted with the management of the finances in the interest of the few by the man who was put in the Treasury in 1921 to supervise the government in the interest of the financial oligarchy.

When Mr. Mills complains of the delay in the passage of a tax bill to balance the budget, Mr. Garner can remind us of the almost incredible blundering of Mr. Mills in his estimates.

No secretaries of the Treasury in more than a century have missed in their estimates by so many hundreds of millions as Mr. Mellon and Mr. Mills. The tax bill was revised time and again, because as soon as a bill had been perfected to meet the estimate Ogden Mills had given, he appeared to announce that he had made a mistake of a few hundred millions—and the work had to be done again.

Mr. Mills puts up a good front, a bit imposing and pretentious, but Jack Garner can tell us what is behind it.

Garner, a Plain, Blunt Man

We like Jack Garner's kind of speech, and so will the Westerners. He is not a rhetorician. Is not given to periods. And he does not strive after "eloquence." He is a plain blunt man, thoroughly conversant with his subject, and he talks the language of the average man robustly. At times he is movingly eloquent, but unconsciously so, and because of his simplicity and sincerity. Garner's appeal for the balancing of the budget was the most moving speech heard in the House last winter or spring.

He has a knack in national matters that Al Smith had in affairs of the state of clear exposition in complicated matters not easy to present intelligently to a crowd of average people. Like Smith, too, he speaks in the colloquial style.

A rather arrogant man, politically, speaking down to the people from a pedestal—such will be Mr. Mills on his western tour; a plain blunt man of the soil talking familiarly with his friends—such Mr. Garner will be.

* * *

Paging Mr. Curtis

But will some one page Charles Curtis?

With all the interest in Garner's movements, no one seems conscious of the existence of his opponent who is being ignored as utterly as though he were no more than a super in a mob scene on the stage. He is being sent into states that are so hopelessly Democratic that he can do no harm; and rigidly excluded from the industrial centers of the East where the fight is on. When it was proposed to send him into Pennsylvania, a vigorous protest from his own party against his presence there was made because of his fanatic devotion to the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act. A compromise was made; he agreed not to mention his prohibition views there and to discuss the tariff. He has been discussing the tariff ever since.

But such are his discussions that we do not recall a single editorial comment, even in his party's papers; and the reports of his speeches are as meager as the speeches are lean. Even the most partisan editor cannot do much with a speech this year predicated on the claim that the Grundy prohibitive tariff act has maintained the American standard of living for the workingman!

The Thought Behind The Garner Plan

Meanwhile the propaganda of falsehoods about Garner has petered out. It was planned to picture him as disloyal to the party in 1928; it was such a monstrous lie it has been abandoned.

It was proposed to describe him as a "wild-eyed radical;" and that may call for a plain blunt analysis of the occasion for it. It could not be because, to furnish jobs, he proposed to construct public buildings, since these were all approved by the administration.

It must be because of his proposal that ordinary businessmen, manufacturers with small plants, unable to get credit at the banks, but able to give good security, and to show that a loan would result in putting men to work on orders received, should have the same chance to borrow from the F. R. A. as the great corporations, the railroads and the banks. He needs no defense on that with the average man.

The oligarchs in Washington, responsible for the miserable mess in which we find ourselves, call it conservatism to loan billions to banks and railroads on such security that a billion, it is estimated, will be lost; but radicalism to give the average man a chance. The primary thought behind the Garner plan, however, was to give confidence to the banks so they would loosen up on credit and to that extent make a government loan unnecessary.
